In Appreciation

Sooner or later, every student at Harding meets Miss Duck. The first contact may come when she administers group tests. As a senior, each can sense her interest in people when, during individual conferences, she discusses results of tests and offers help in choosing the right college or vocation. Serving in the capacity of full-time senior counselor and being a homeroom teacher for 50 students has displayed her untiring efforts and patience. Although her position is comparatively new, she has been here for many years, and alumni remember her as an English teacher. It is with great appreciation and gratitude that we dedicate the 1960 Echoes to Miss Mary Duck.

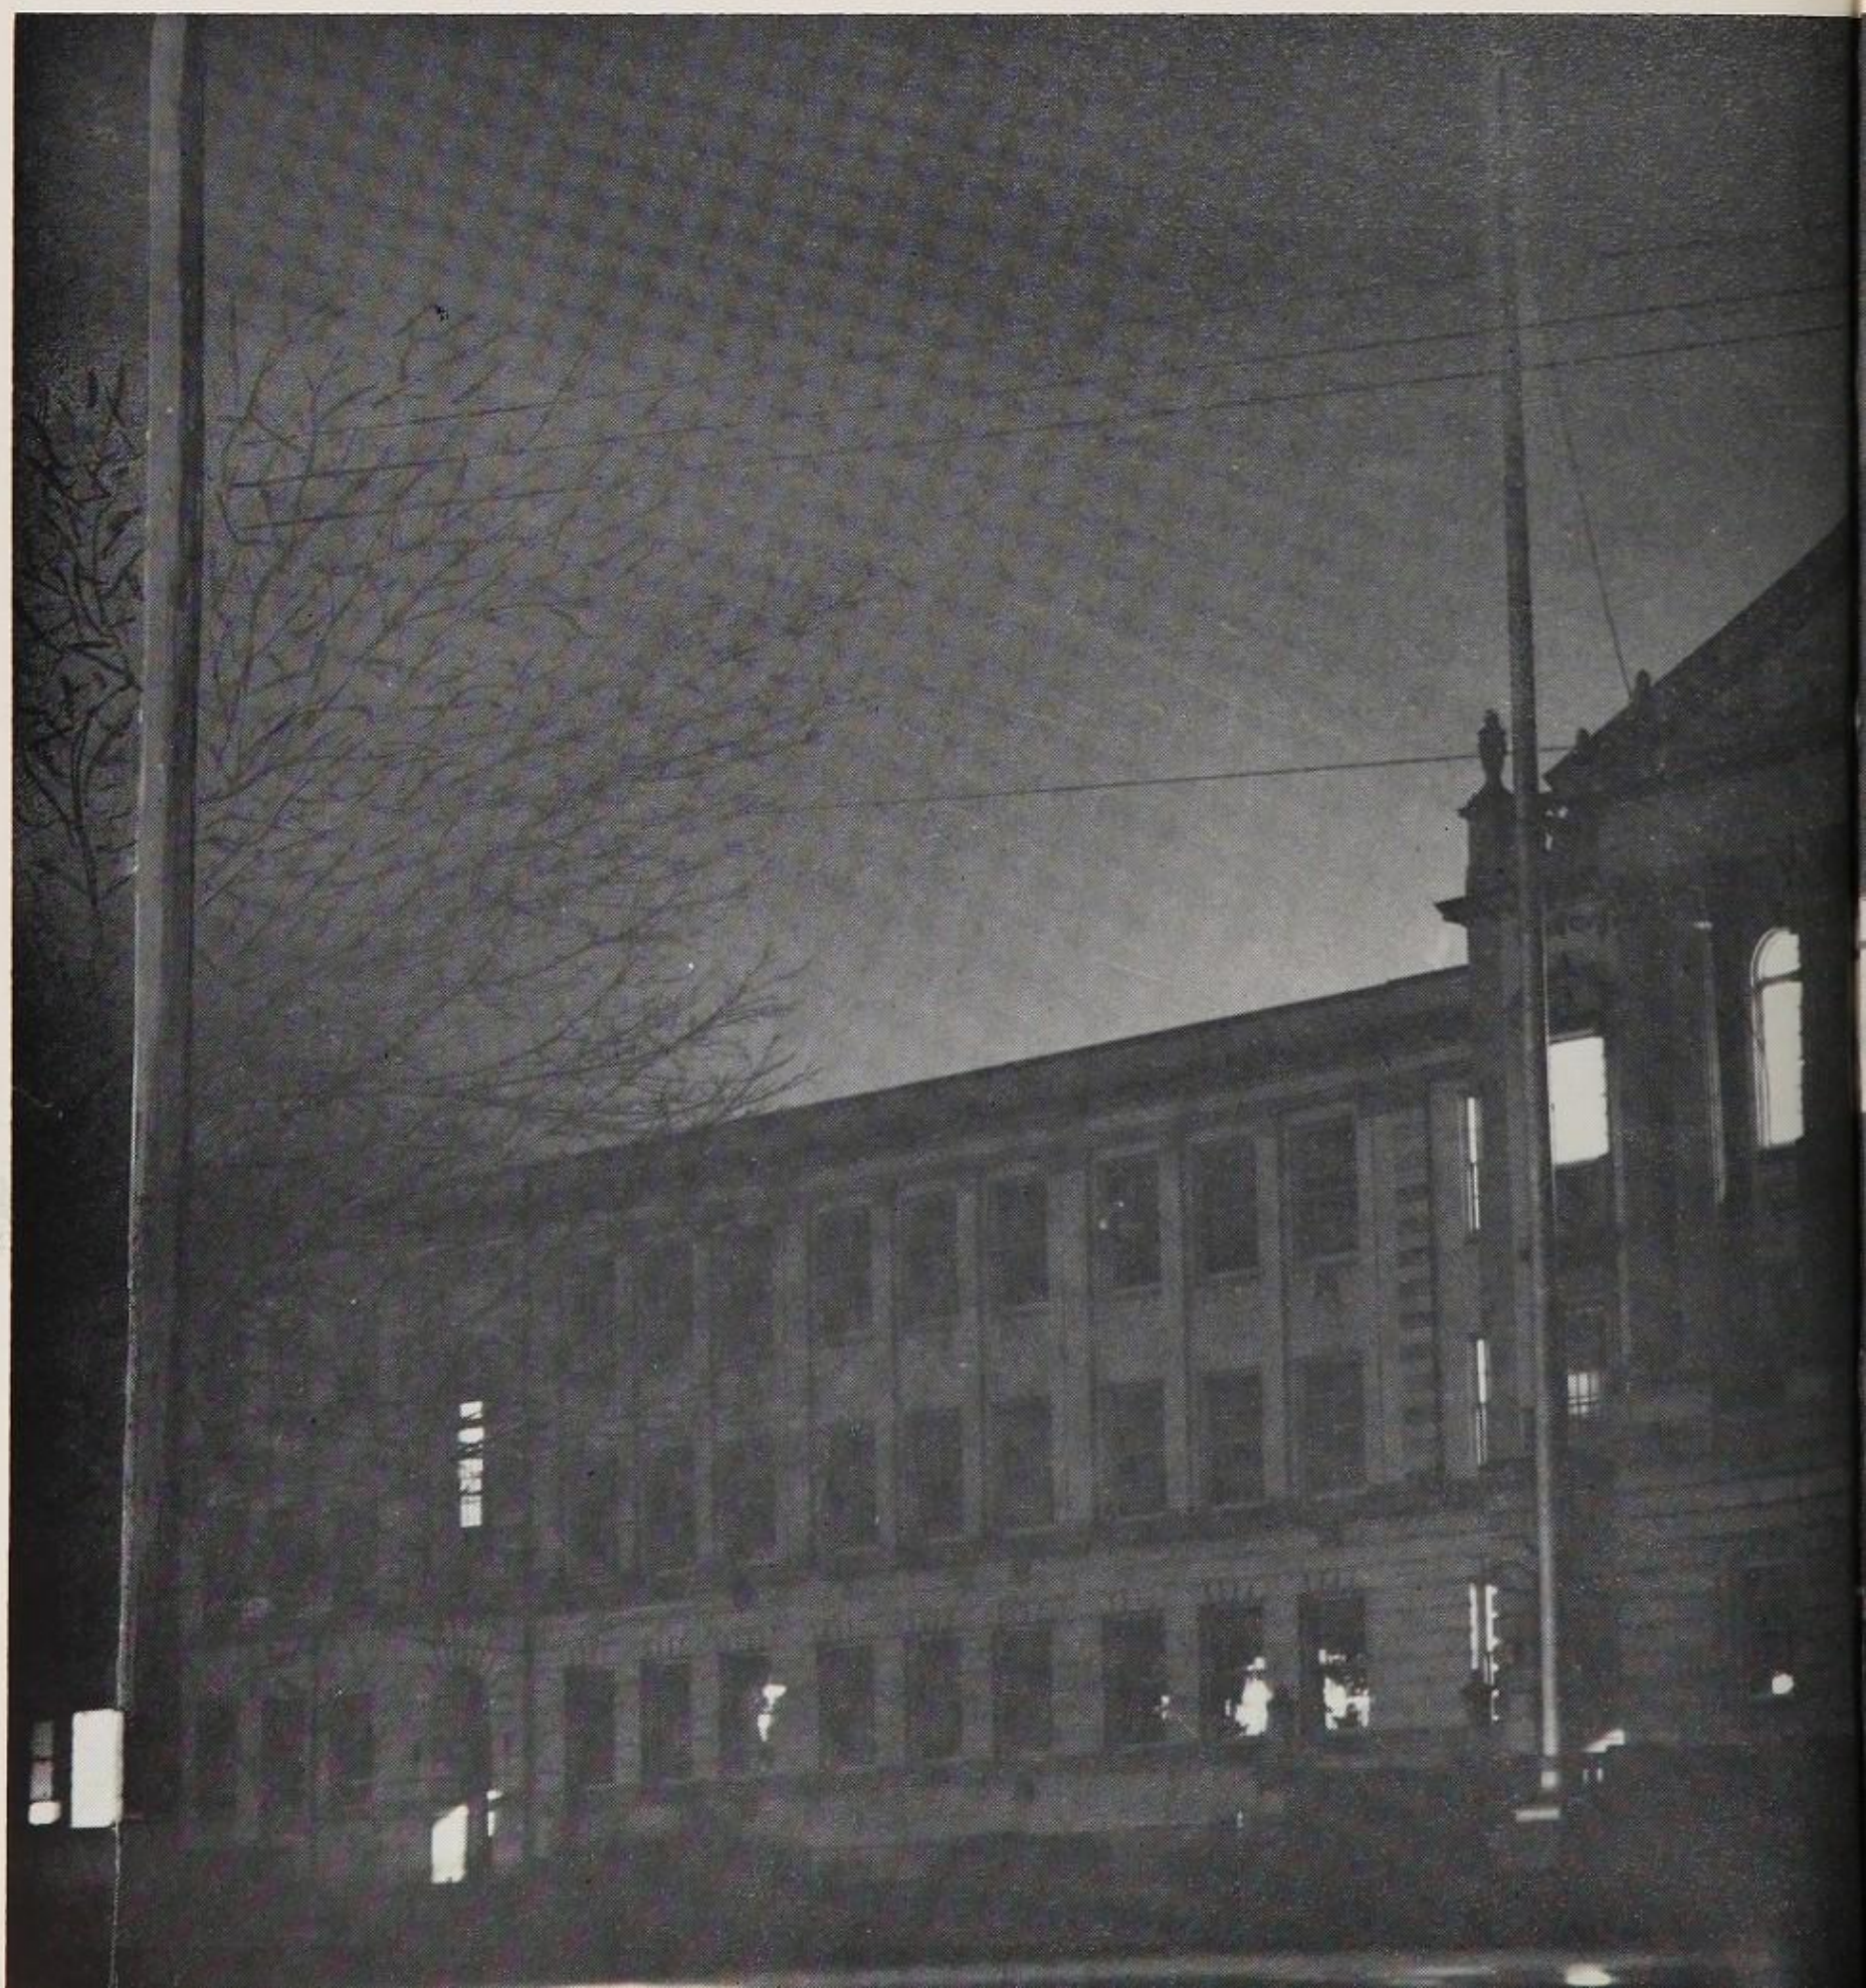
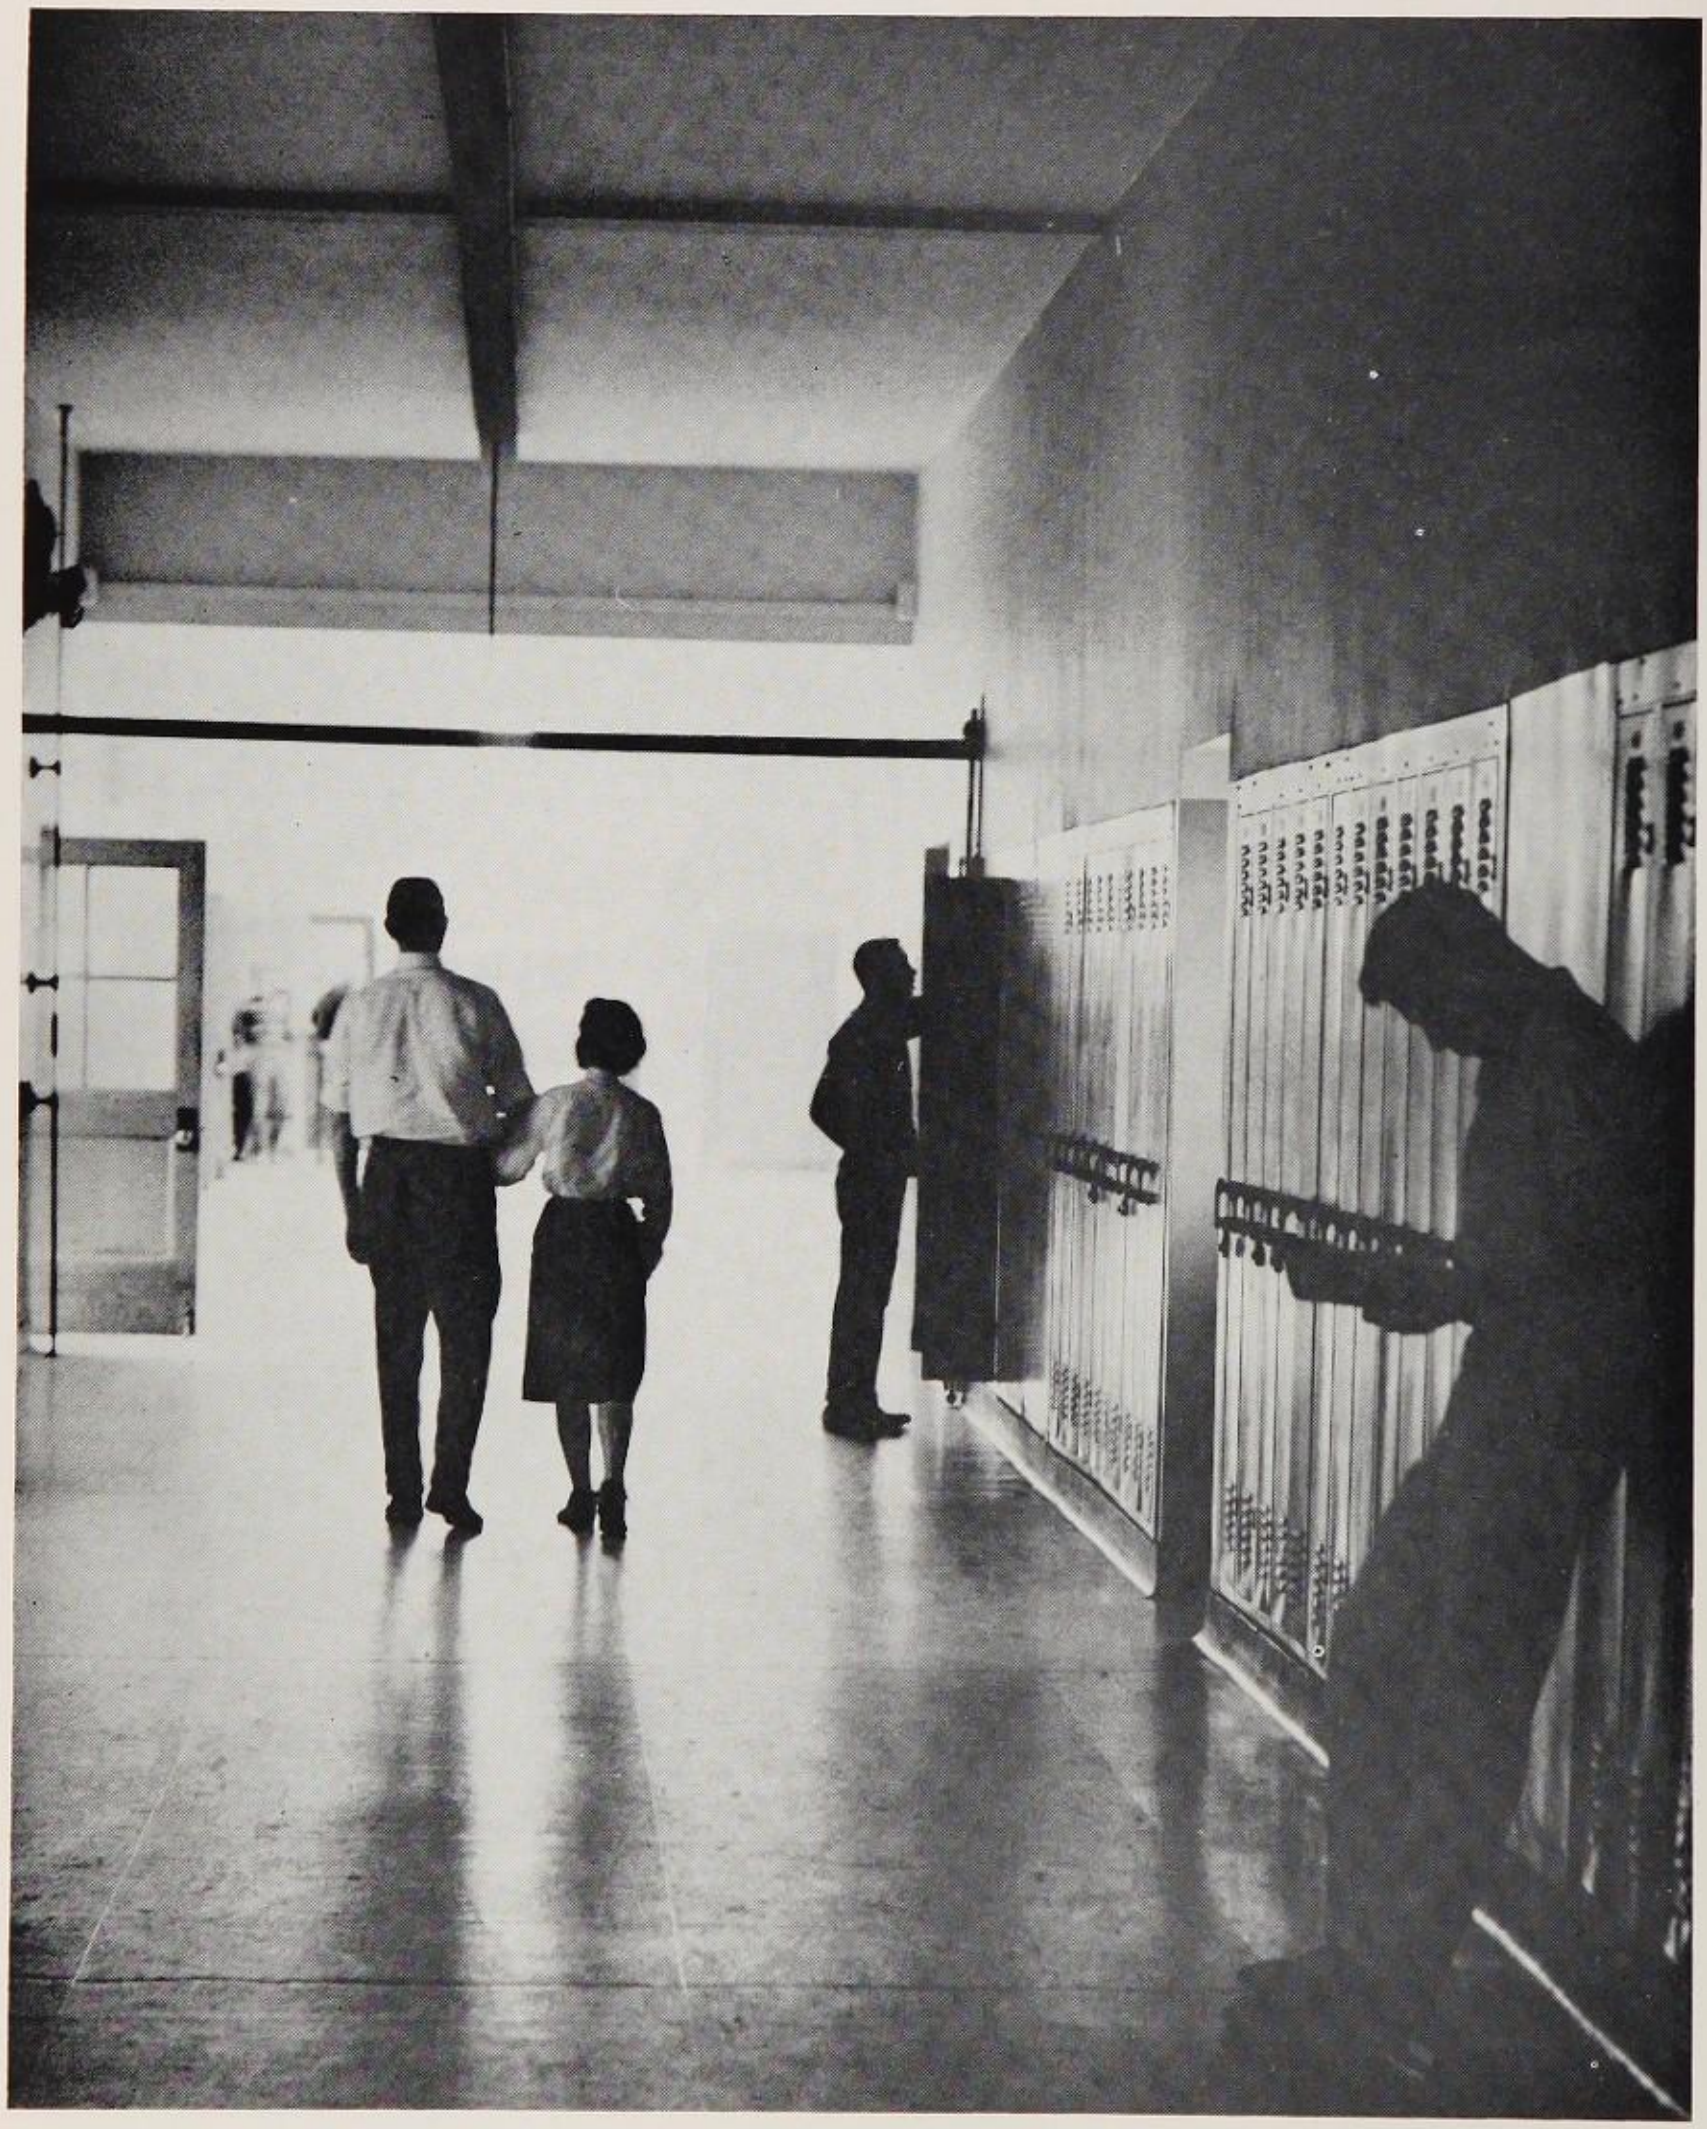
THAT COME AND GO

-OMAR KHAYYAM



As shadows alter their shapes, so the scene changes in a modern high school. A pattern formed about each student's individual interests becomes a vastly different image as learning situations vary, leadership develops, and social affairs become more important in his life. An ever-changing personality marks high school years. Gradually the student becomes more mature, ready to leave behind familiar patterns he has known. He is eager to try the outside world.

Shadowed Halls Reflect Varied Activities . . .



Shadows quietly follow the individual wherever he goes. At work or play, they linger in the background, giving depth and meaning to every action. Shadows do not have the ability to work toward better goals. They are but devoted companions who follow where we lead, reflecting what we do. Whether in a social atmosphere, classroom, or familiar corridors, shadows are never lost. They stand ever-watchful as we cultivate interest in a favored subject or develop a special talent.

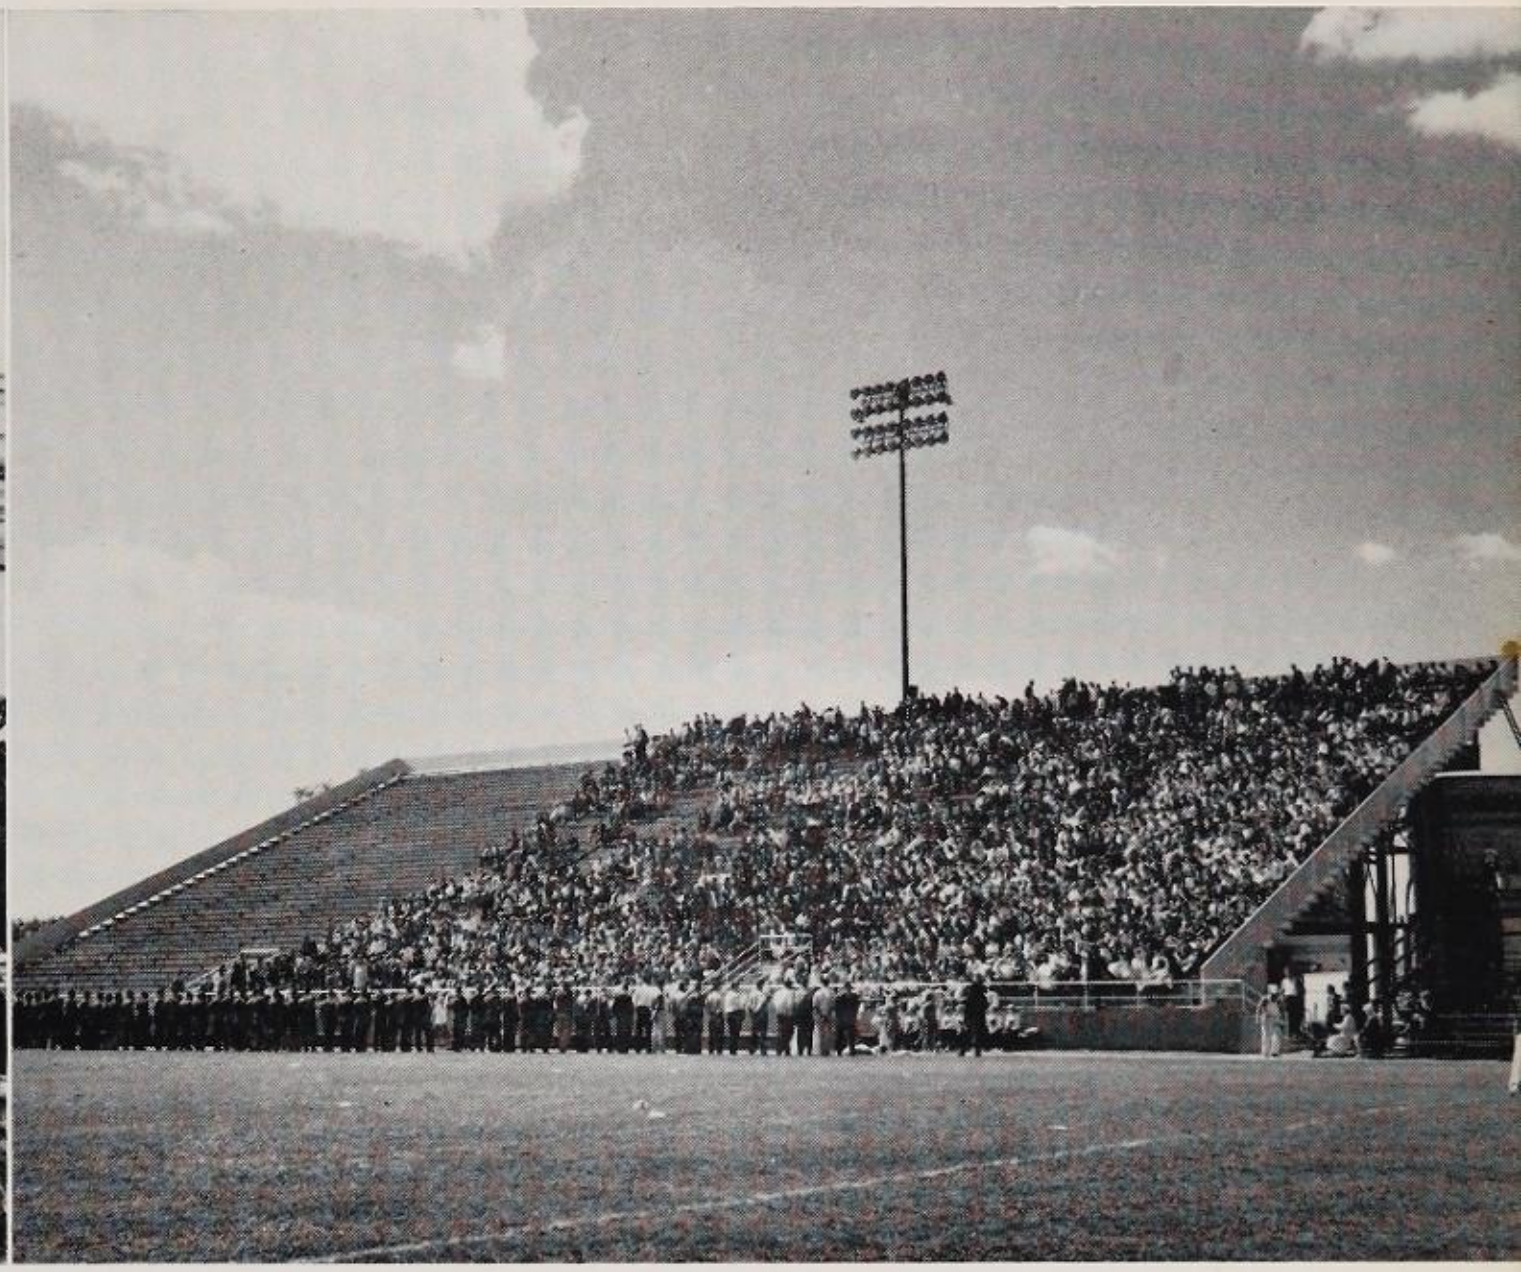
Shadows of Student Life

Selling stadium tickets at the Home Show in Packard Music Hall are E. Campbell, T. Marcarello, and C. Bills, drive chairman.

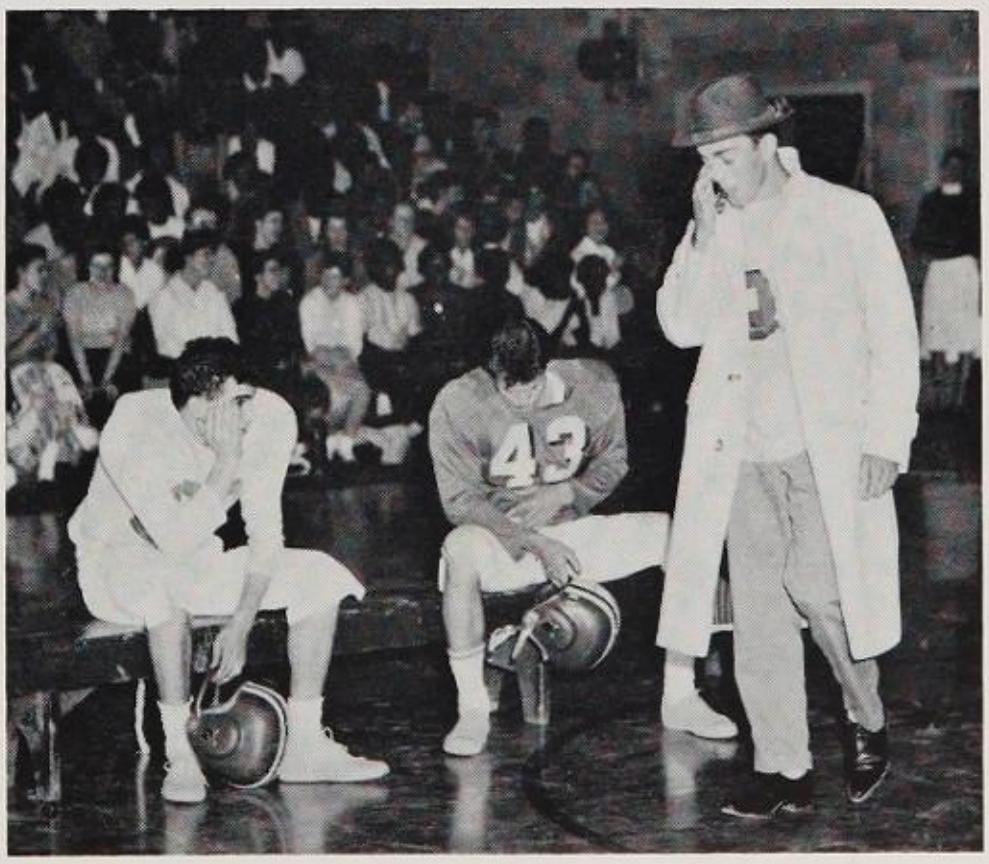
Football Plays a Major Part in Student Life

At the football banquet H. Beck, athletic director, receives a charming new secretary (K. Williams).

Our stadium with a 5,000 seat capacity, had its beginning last spring with a vigorous drive to sell seats. Summer school students watched the progress of construction, eagerly awaiting the opening of school. September brought the beginning of football season, and students enjoyed their first pep rally in the new stadium. Games were attended by as many as 12,000 excited spectators. The annual football banquet at Packard Music Hall, at which Head Coach Forrest Evashevski of the University of Iowa was the main speaker, closed the season by honoring players, cheerleaders, and Harding's marching band.



Moving the earth begins the construction job, and the student body at the first pep rally shows they are proud of the stadium.



Massillon's disillusionment is portrayed by H. Rubin, R. Potts, and G. Richetto.

Homecoming Weekend Hails Our First Queen

Despite rainy weather, Homecoming festivities of 1959 opened with a colorful procession and coronation of Evelyn Urban as queen of the Cleveland East Tech game. Ribbon girls dressed in red and white blazers formed a pathway for the queen and her attendants, Julia Byrd and Rita Slanco. Nancy Trimbur, Booster Club president, officially crowned the student body's choice. At the Homecoming Dance the next night, Evelyn was again honored, this time by Ronald McGarry, president of Lettermen.

At the dance all eyes are on the queen and her escort, C. Cesta, as they approach the throne.

Crowning of the queen opens the homecoming game. Participating in the festivities are A. Minotti, Panther Boosters president; R. McGarry, R. Slanco, G. Richetto, the queen, N. trimbur, T. LaBaugh, J. Byrd, G. Tracy and children D. Knappenberger and V. Moore. —Tribune Photo

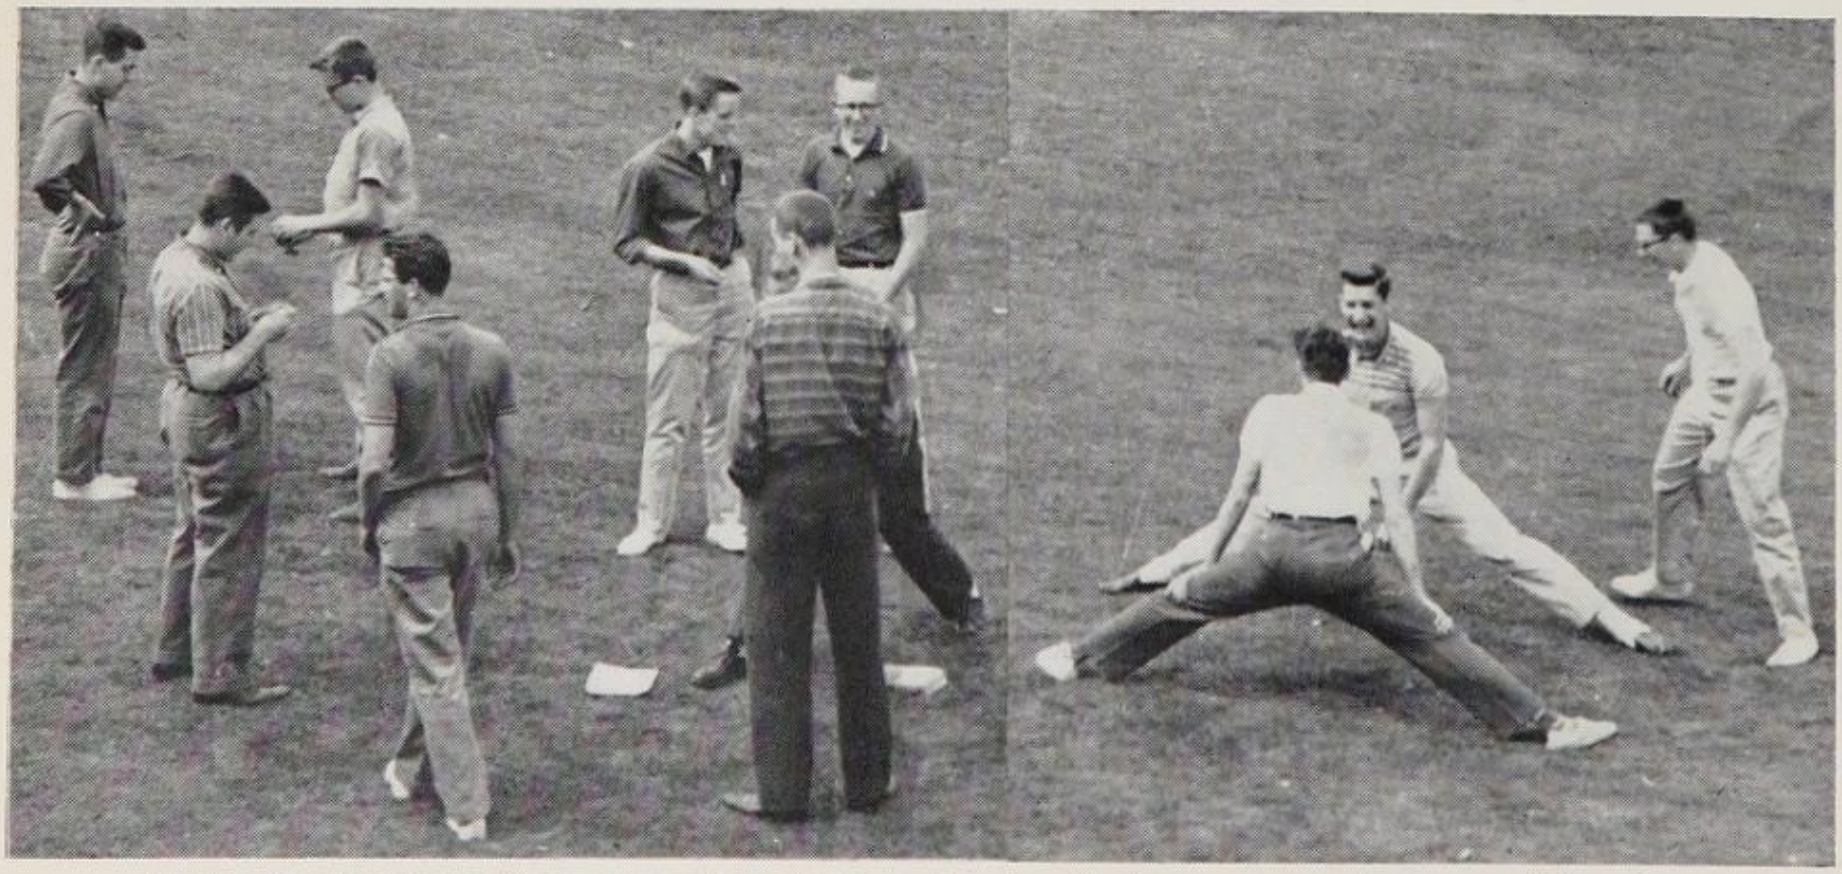
We're Thrilled by Joyous Music, Springtime,



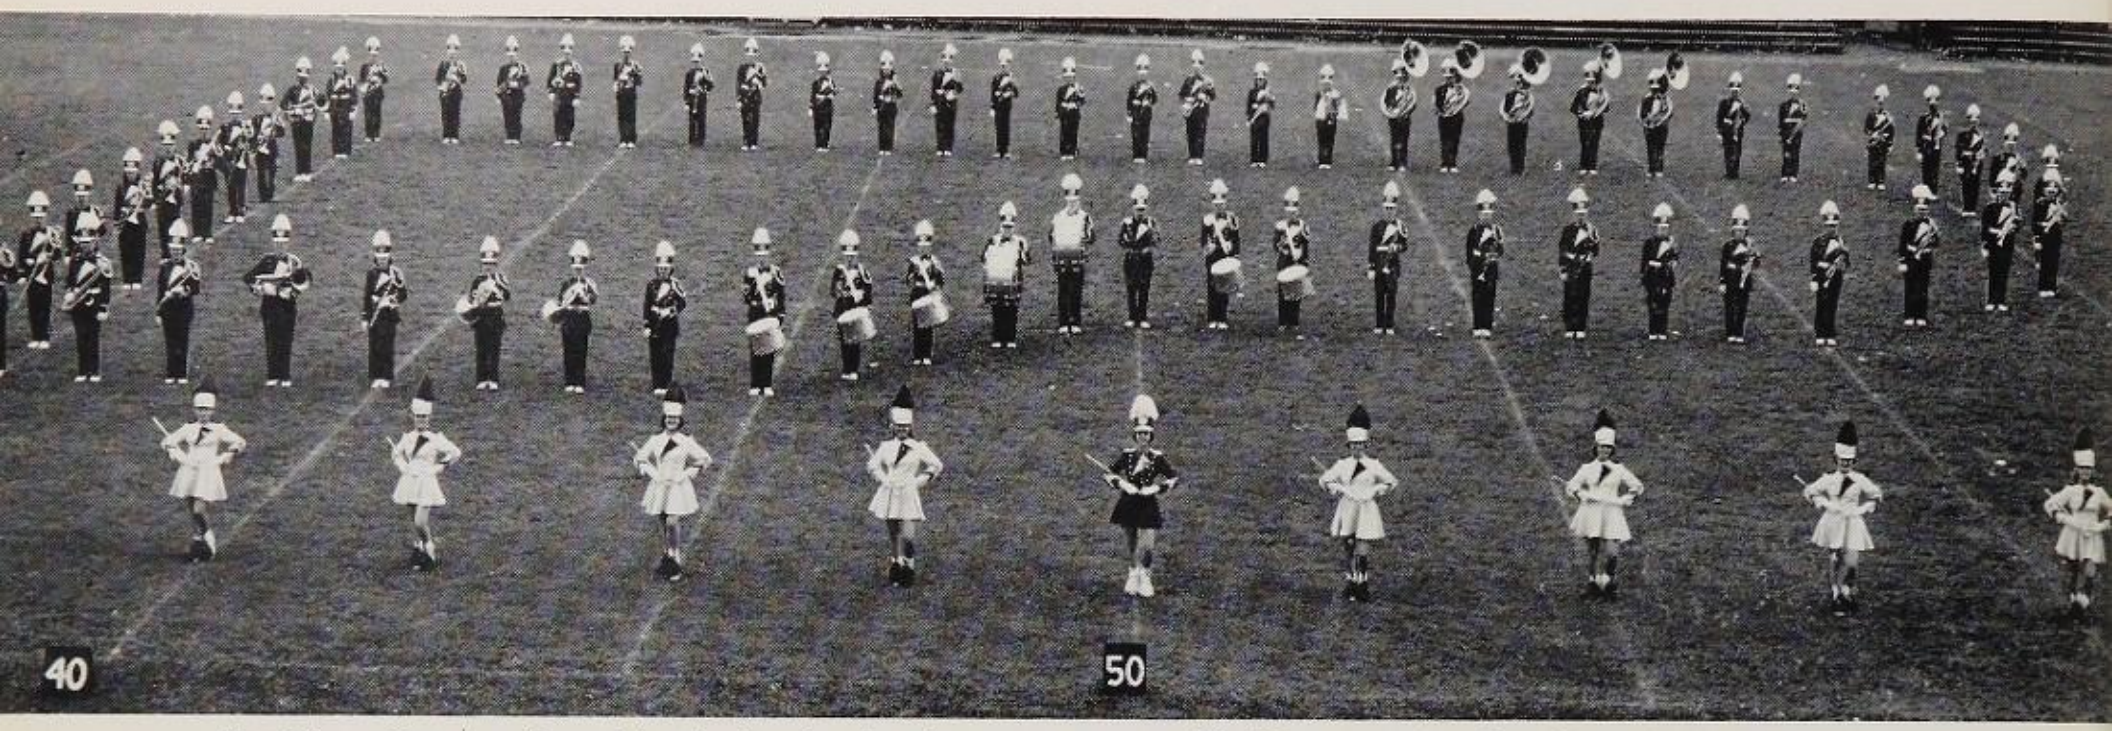
As days grow warmer, lunchers move outdoors to take walks, sit under the green trees, play a game of "stretch" or "frisby."

and Plans for Graduation

As graduation approaches, we grow excited yet apprehensive of the future. The class will never again know such unity as it now has, for each member will be going his separate way. This is the climax, the culmination of twelve years together.

With its busiest season at Christmastime, the 80-voice a cappella choir, directed by Dr. Carl Scheig, caroled to service clubs, shoppers, and over radio station WHHH. The group, which produced a thrilling half-time show with the band at the last football game, also sang at several school assemblies and a Packard band concert. In the spring, the organization toured the junior highs to demonstrate singing skills. Participating in all all-city school choral festival was a highlight of the year.

A Spirited Band Performance Draws Applause



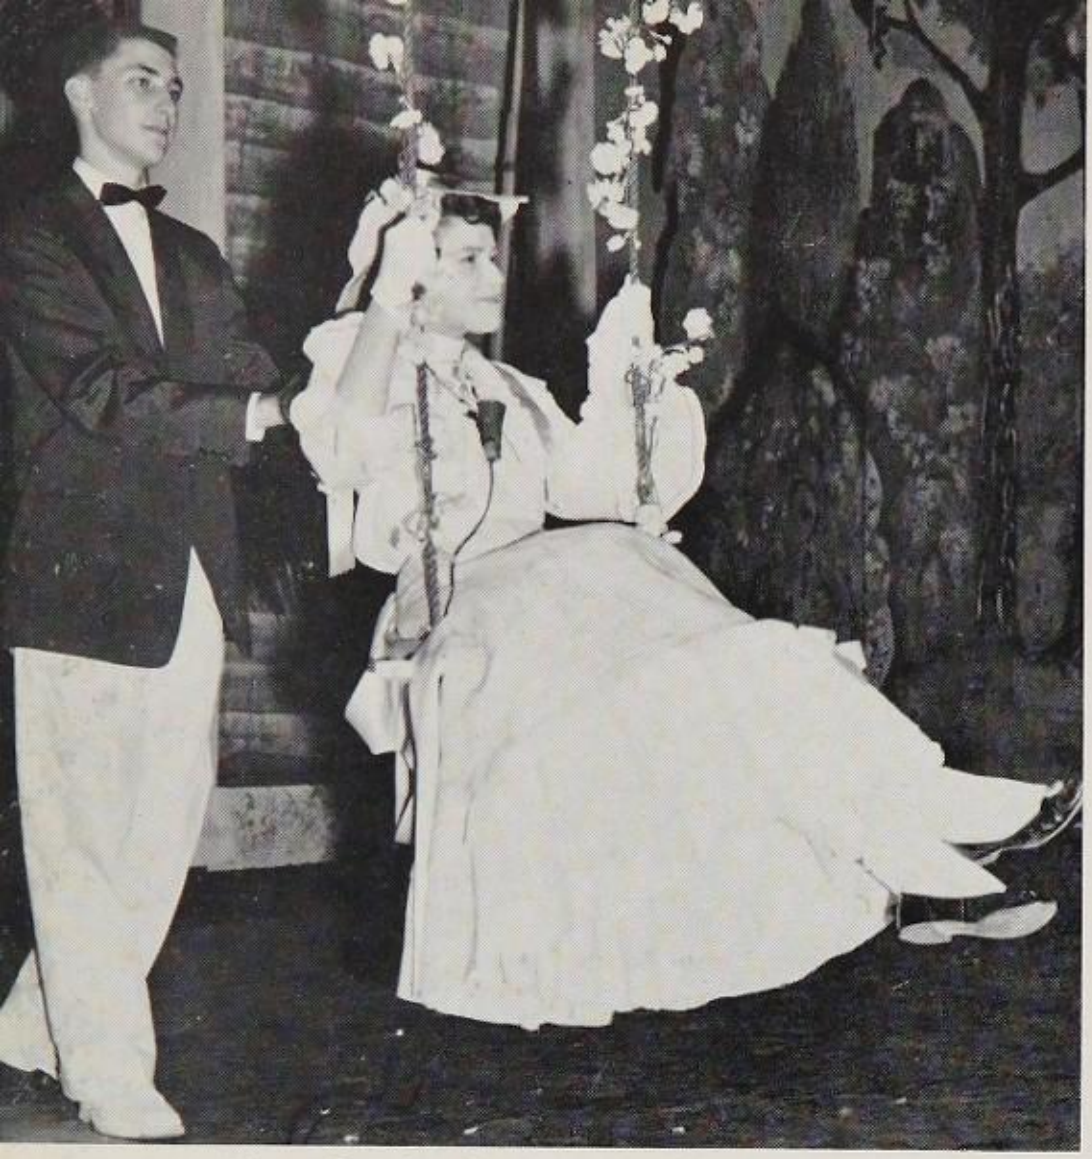
Exquisite patterns are formed by the band and majorettes as a part of half-time exercises throughout the football season.

Woodwinds produce sweet and flowing sounds, while the precussion section adds that needed rhythm.

Perfection of a band performance is an extensive and difficult program, but results are rewarding. Rehearsals of twelve to fifteen hours a week during football season produce impressive halftime shows. Then the group changes to a concert band and begins preparation for its annual mid-winter and spring concerts. Active parent boosters sponsored trips to observe the Ohio State University Marching Band and Cleveland Symphony Orchestra.

From the big bass horn down to the clarinet, each member learns to play his instrument, as well as to keep it in good condition.

Because majorettes strive for precision and perfection during practice, their performance at football games is sparkling.



"Zip a dee doo dah" sings J. Hilb as J. Pestrak swings her.

A southern plantation theme served as an interesting setting for the thirty-first annual Booster Club Frolics. The cast was chosen in February, and after many weeks of hard work the show was produced in April for a three-night stand. Stage sets, created by the art department, showed various scenes of the south. The show opened in front of a mansion, moved inside to its spacious ballroom, and ended in the cotton fields of the plantation. Jere Bowker, Richard Pellegrim, and Colonel Dolby, who were masters of ceremonies, introduced the singing, dancing, and instrumental acts. Stooges added extra spark by intermittently staging humorous skits. Highlighting the show were the appearance of Harding's dance band and a cappella choir.

The Moderns, a combo featuring M. Schiewe, L. Lowry, P. Loveless, and M. Spencer, play "Dancing on the Ceiling."

More than one hundred fifty performers, largest Frolics cast in many years, pause after the finale of another variety show.

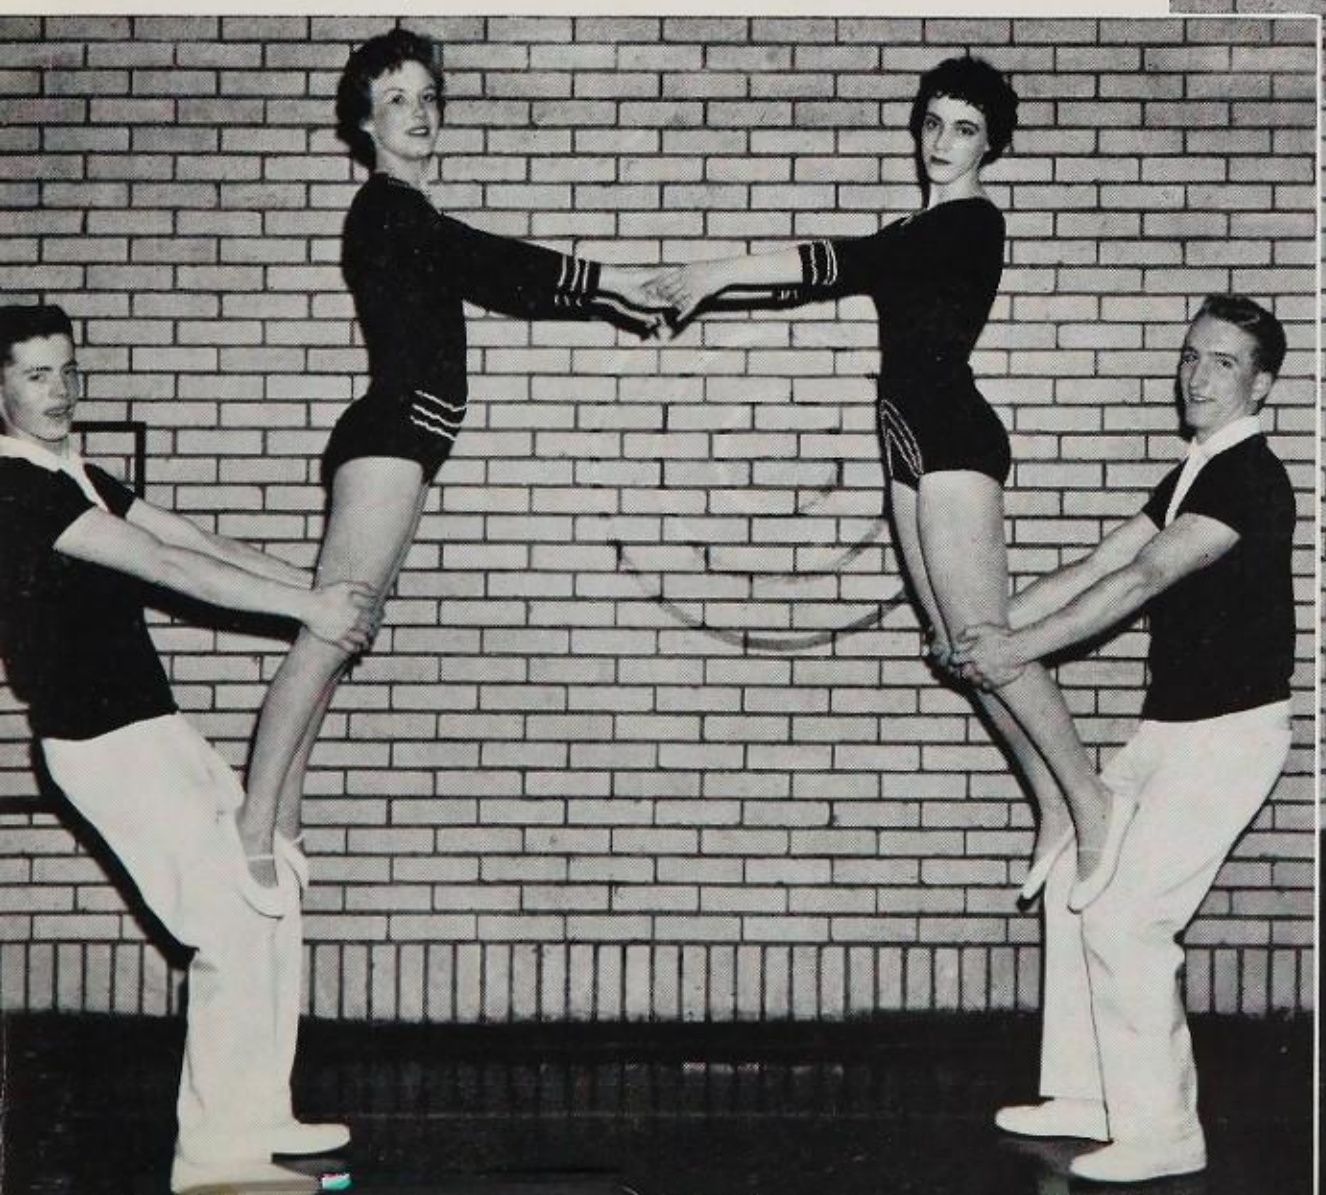
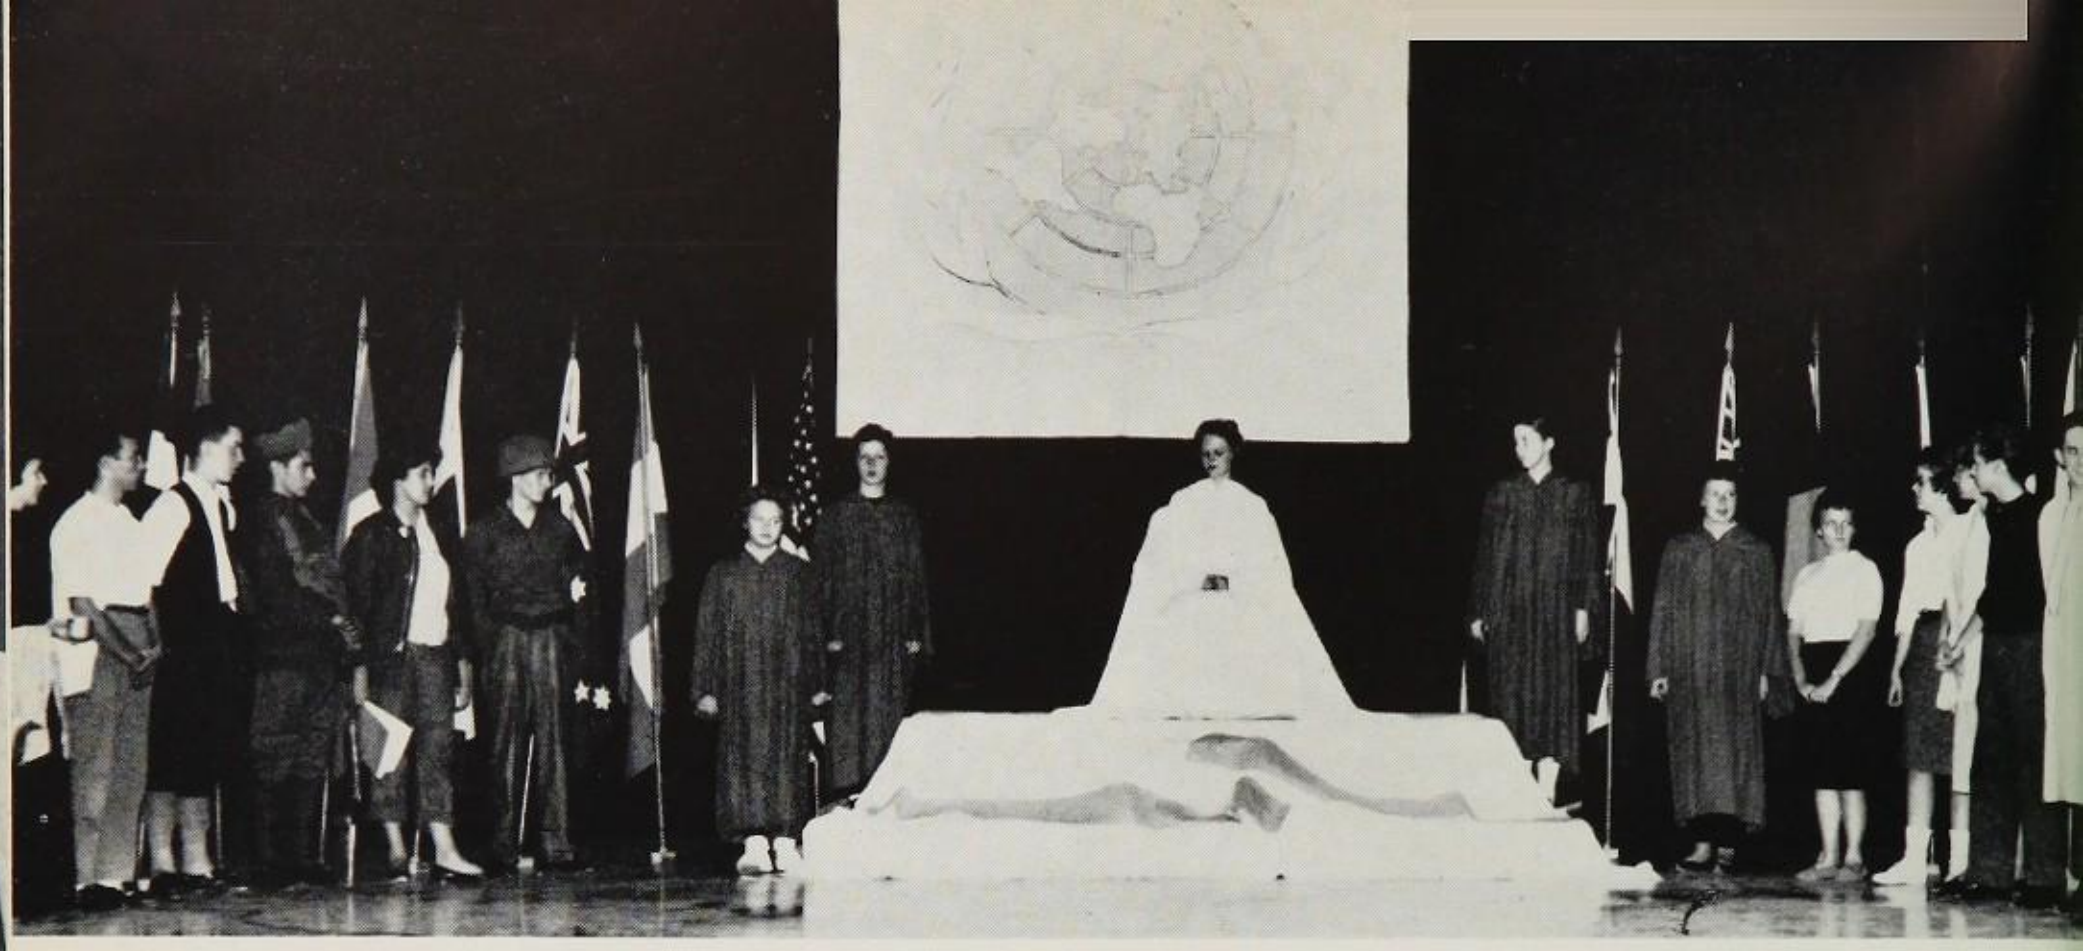
Double balancing takes skill as C. Peters, L. Frost, J. Capito, and D. Baker Know.





Flanked by characters from all wars in which the United States has fought, victorious Peace sits in a chair of high honor.

We Present Assemblies . . . Engage in Rivalry

"Stepping Stones Toward Peace," theme for the annual Veterans Day assembly presented by Speakers Bureau, portrayed the many wars America has fought from revolutionary to modern times. The cause for Peace won over War after giving the advantages of her beliefs.

As each school year begins, a furious campaign gets under way with three teams vieing to sell the most activity tickets. An assembly explains the advantages of buying a ticket. Eight hundred and fifty tickets were sold, the most in the history of the school.

Friendly rivals in the activity ticket drive, T. LaBaugh and G. Tracy, attempt to tear the banner of victorious captain E. Bowman.

Shadows of Guidance

Final Plans Come from the Administration

Nearly everything that takes place in the Warren schools in some way falls into the shadow of general supervision by Dr. Sanford F. Jameson. As superintendent of schools he works diligently to promote a better system of education plus community understanding of school problems.

DR. SANFORD F. JAMESON
Superintendent of Schools

From finance to furniture, from personnel to public affairs, problems come thick and fast for the Board of Education and members of the administration. As each problem is met and solved, two more pop up to take its place. In their capable hands, the Warren school system is molded and set into action. With their combined efforts an intricate working machine shapes the lives of several thousand high school students.

A Competent Staff Guides

Closer to us, guidance comes from our principals and counselors, headed by Principal Milton Mollenkopf, who for years has been giving aid to thousands of students. Everyone was pleased when the Class of 1959 presented a life-size portrait of him to the school. Framed and spotlighted, it hangs in the main corridor. The coming of Louis Hyde and the advancement of Louis Swart gives us two assistant principals. Appointment of Merrill Cooley as a counselor provides help for Mary Duck, senior counselor, and Marie O'Rourke, dean of girls. With efficient office help, affairs of the school run smoothly.

Members of the English Department are constantly "on the go." They attend conferences, take groups to plays, participate in local and state organizations, as well as being on the alert for new materials for their classes. Publications advisors keep the community and the students up-to-date on our school. Speech teachers help students with public appearances and cooperate with civic groups by providing speakers. Literature instructors set up displays of new and interesting items. Drama and projects make English come to life.

Spanish, French, and Latin have a common origin as does all math. The teachers of these courses likewise work with one another. Although their subjects may differ, they are drawn together by a common interest and knowledge. Throughout the school year they work together and plan together for both scholastic and extra-curricular activities. They plan their instruction so that it will be compatible and harmonious. They plan dances and take trips. Because of their joint efforts, students receive a better, wider view of their subjects.

Teachers often collaborate on a subject of mutual interest, or aid with outside activities. Members of the science faculty, for example, had a major role in organizing the Science-Mathematics Fair. Shadows of Learning

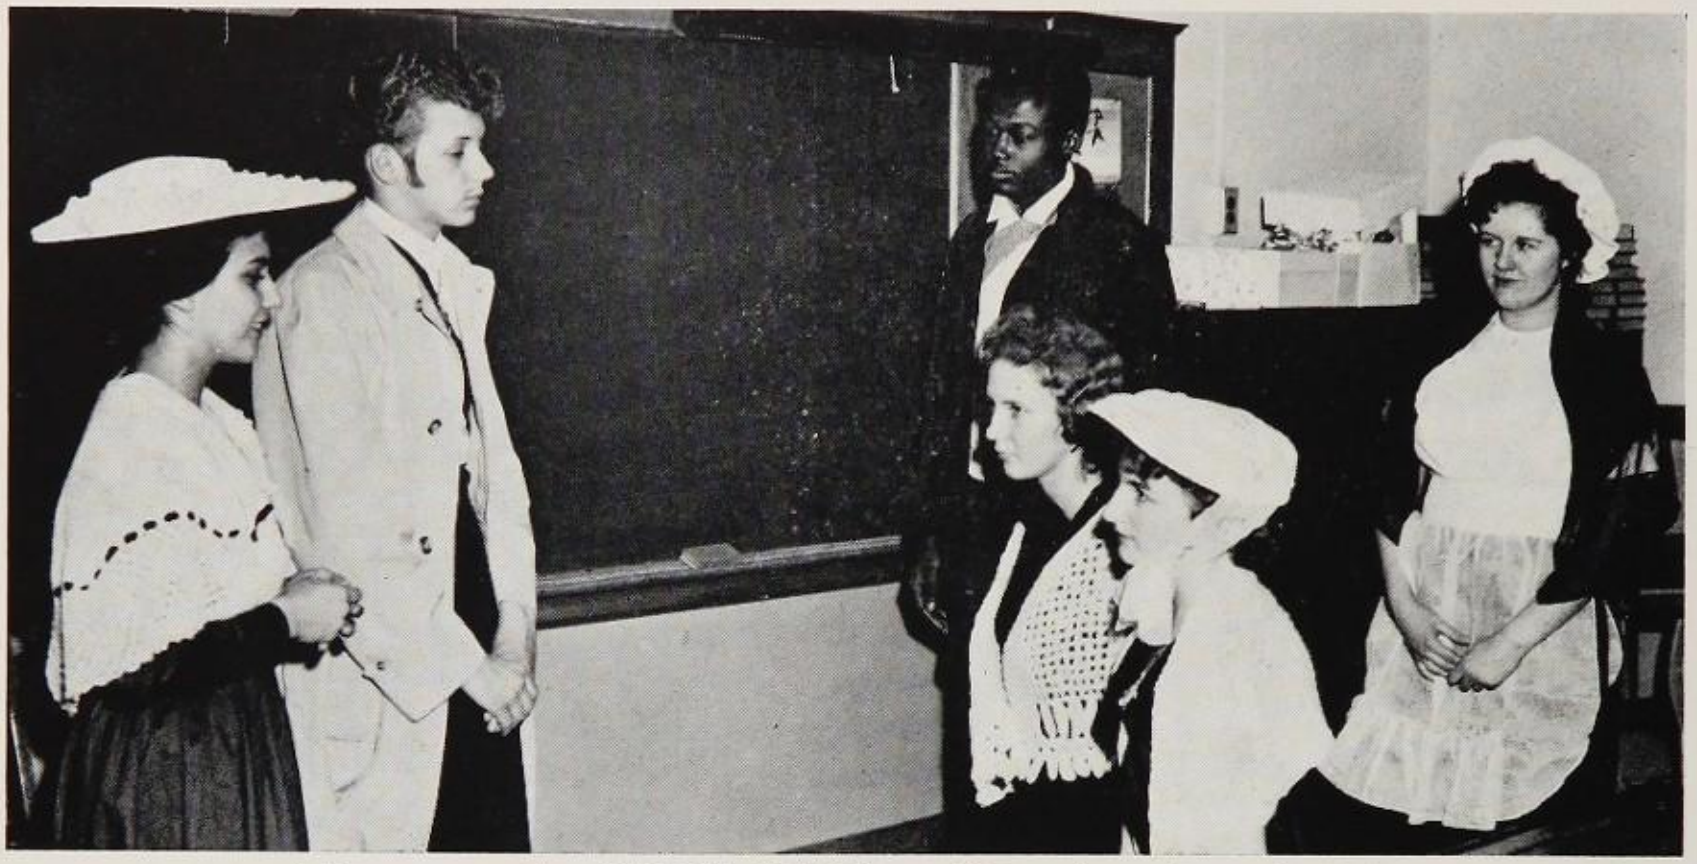
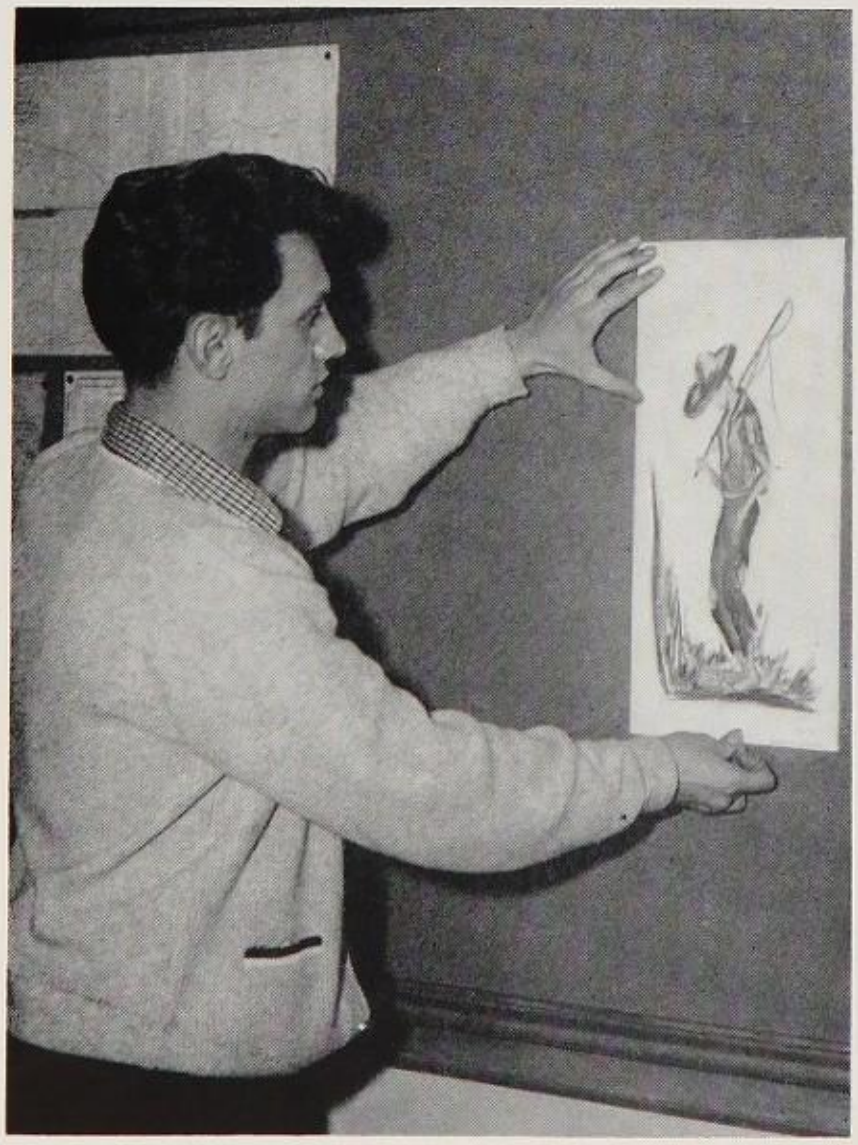
In Speech and Writing Lies a Challenge



Acting out scenes from VICTORIA REGINA is an aid in understanding early English speech and dress.

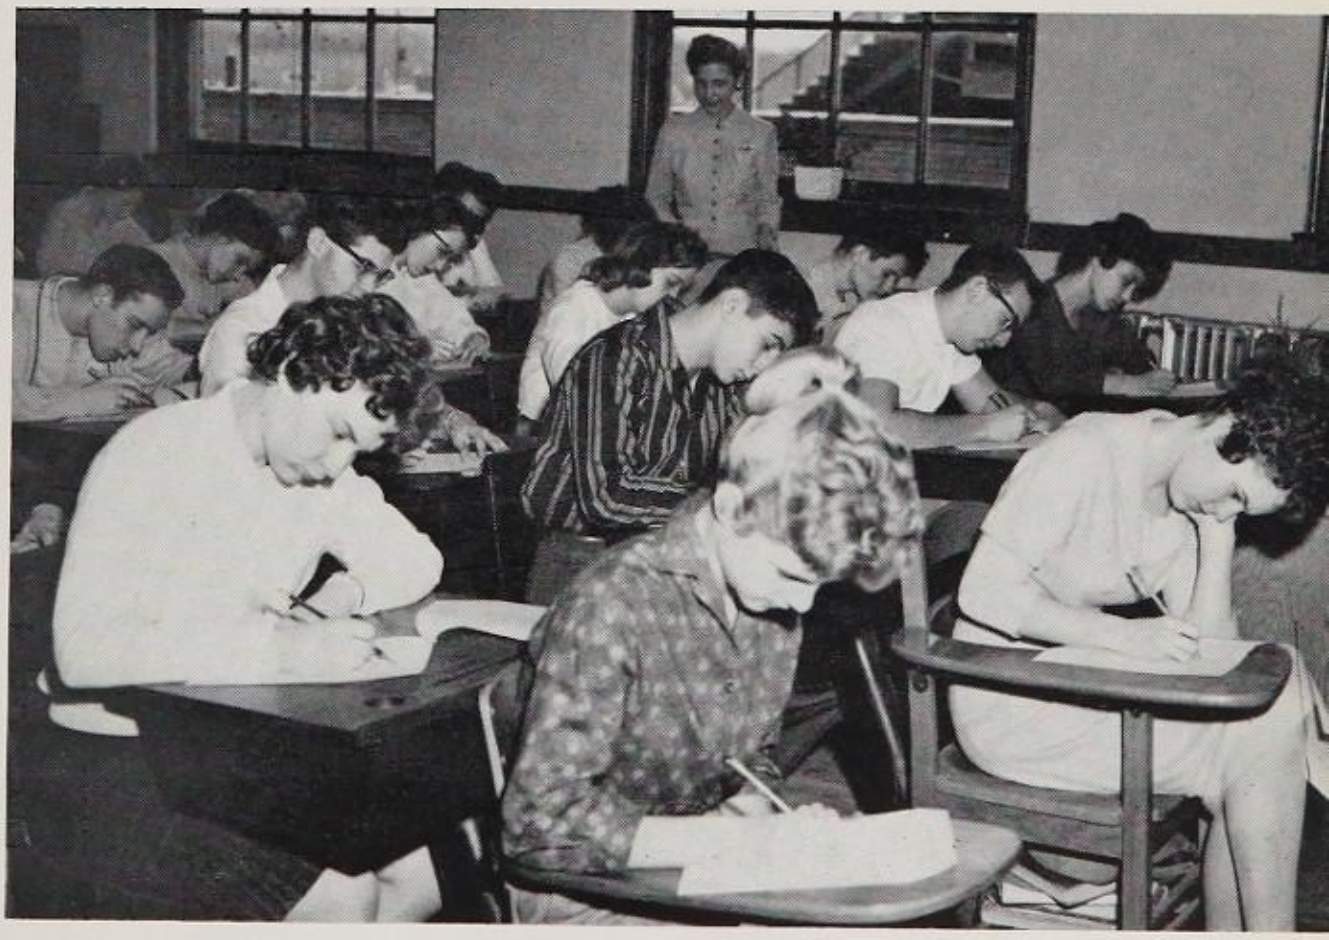
Using his imagination, D. DiCola makes a drawing of Huck Finn for his classmates, who are studying Mark Twain's novels.



A term project about an English author requires L. Moore to do research and careful filing.

Learning to address a group in speech class, W. Hayes uses props for a talk about his hobby.

Beckoning shapes of the future cause many variations in the choice of subjects, especially in the English Department. One student may see himself as a commentator of a large radio station, and he selects speech. Another has visions of a newspaper office and enrolls for journalism. Others dream of the stage and the benefits of experience in dramatics. For college-bound students, English is very important for the grammar and literary background of a college education. Future secretaries brush up on punctuation and correct letter form. Learning to find reference material in the library helps in all subjects, and those who enjoy reading find many interesting stories in their English books.

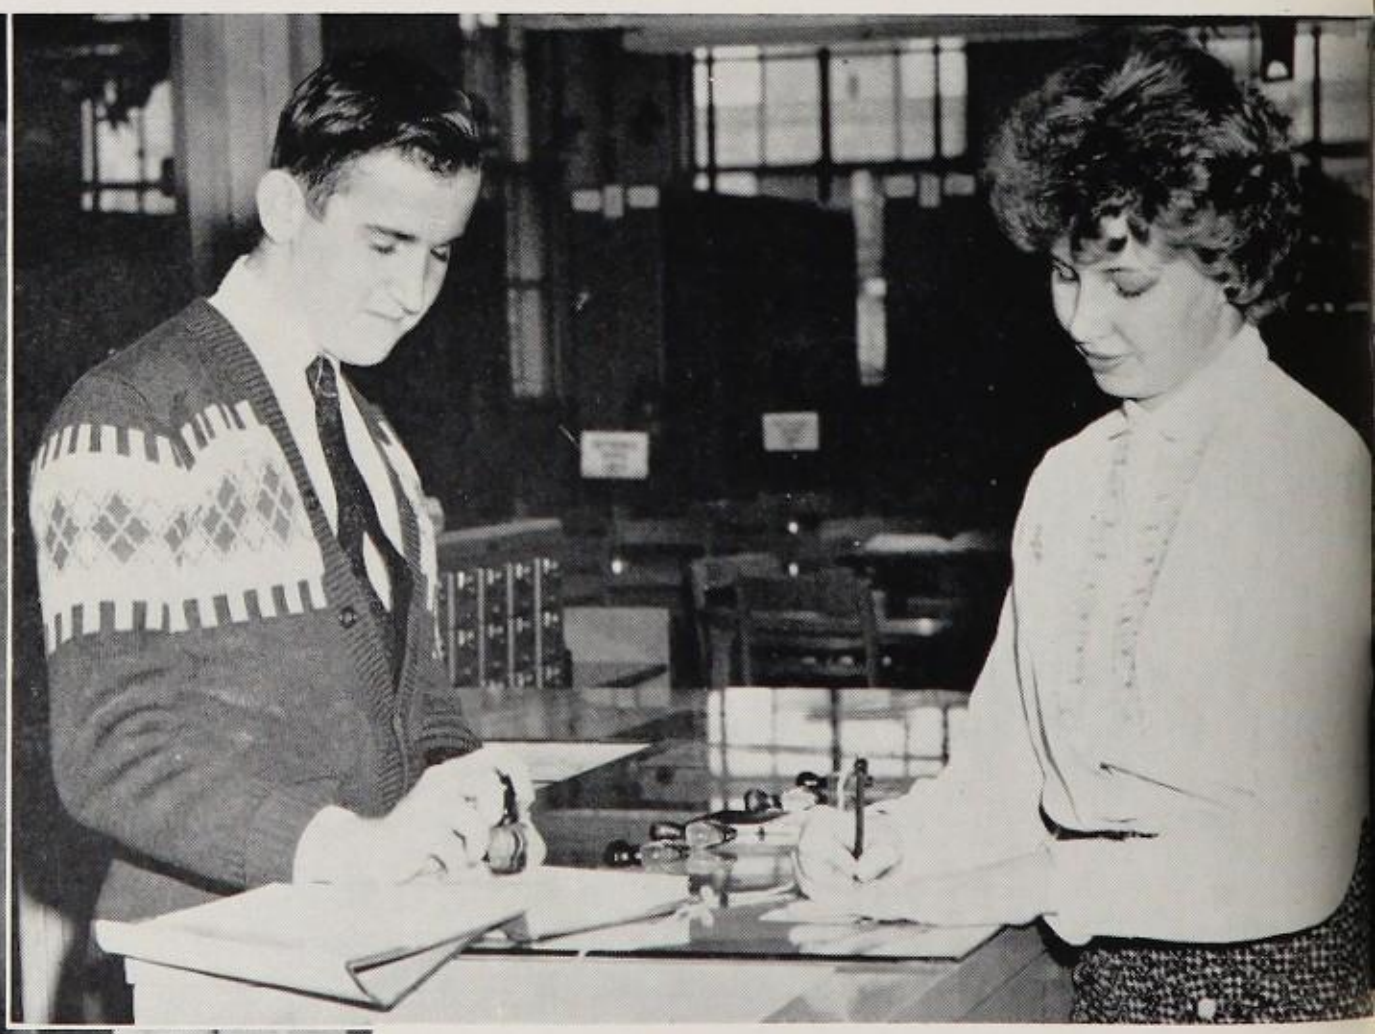


After reading A LANTERN IN HER HAND, American lit students write a character analysis of Will and Abbie Deal.

During a one-week period, tenth grade English students are instructed by Miss Watkins on how to use the library efficiently.

A "stick," used in setting type, is adjusted to correct length by D. Burfitt.

Assuming one of his many responsibilities as student librarian is D. Cunningham, while J. Bakun signs her name on the book card.



Learning a foreign language can be as interesting and almost as exciting as actually traveling to a foreign land. Romantic France and colorful Spain, along with the remains of a once mighty Roman Empire are the backbone of our language department. Friendship and understanding of other nations can be gained by knowing their language and way of living. Following the trend of other schools throughout the country, Harding offers to interested students a three-year course in Spanish and French. Latin is available for four years.

Roman gods studied in Latin class are portrayed in a play by B. Hoffman, J. Cross, J. Jenkins for a Decimi Club meeting.

Adventure Surrounds Foreign Languages

Examining the French department's replica of the stately Eiffel tower are T. Bustard and K. Isler.

Combining Spanish grammar with outside activities, V. Collier asks, "Are you going to the Mardi Gras?"

Examining old bones in biology class interests J. Suciu and W. Marsteller.

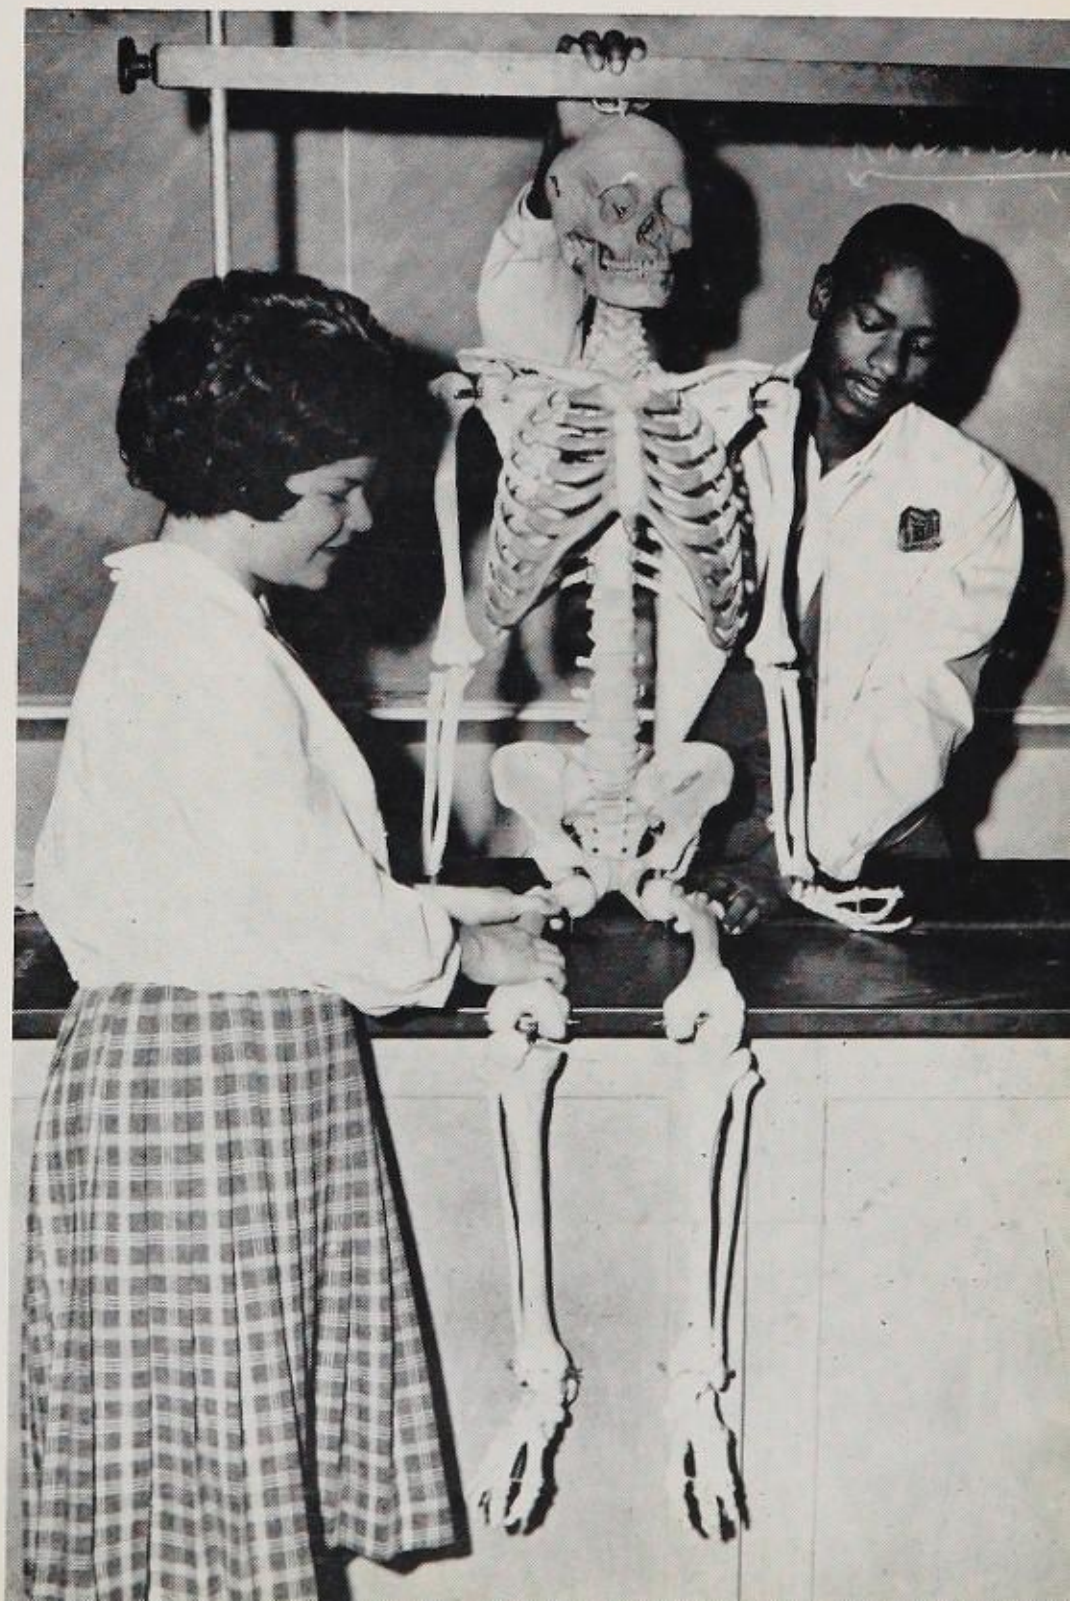
The Space Age Reveals Need for Science

Looking into the microscope, M. Maligas discovers strange activities of the amoeba, one of the lowest forms of life.

Great opportunity for those who are willing to strive for perfection is offered by modern science. In all its forms lie the future, but behind all advances hover the shadows of the world's great scientists, their discoveries and their vision. Experiments in chemistry and physics show what has already been accomplished. Biology and zoology are exciting to those who are interested in animal life. The first glance into a microscope opens a world for exploration.

Whilo F. Coleman records results, J. Fenstermaker and R. Shesko check the heat of fusion of ice in physics class.

Constantly students are being influenced by the past and inspired to search for new discoveries. Science encourages them to determine and solve their own problems, to find their main interest in the field. Using their own initiative and skill, many would-be scientists took advantage of the opportunity to submit original projects in the first Science Fair sponsored by the Warren schools. The pioneering urge of youth was satisfied along with the challenge to assume responsibility and leadership for the future.



In physiology Mr. Bones is always helpful in demonstrating his many unique parts for S. Wilkoff and E. Thompson.

Math, Social Studies Develop Clear Thinking

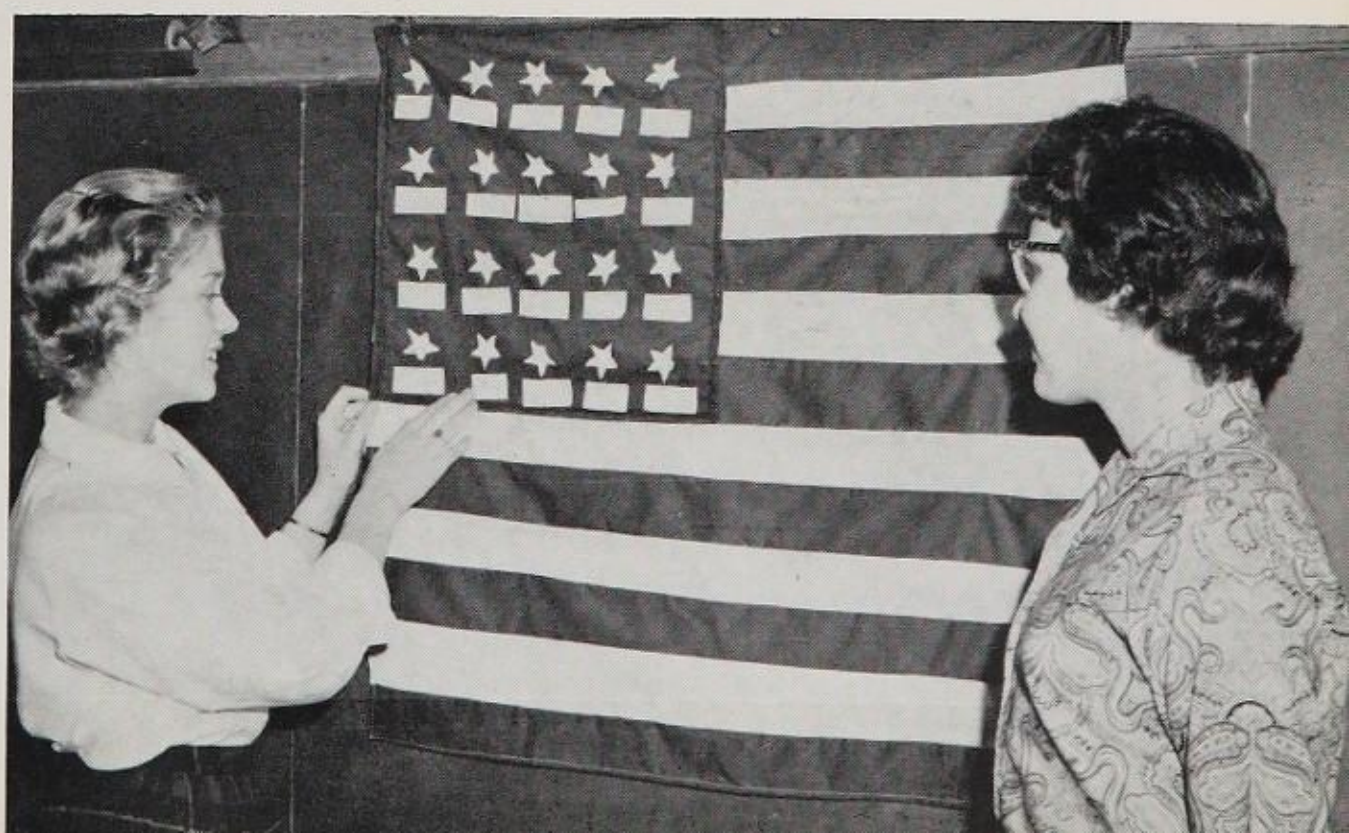
The school grounds provide an excellent place for W. Pogue to use the transit in an advanced math problems. S. Pappas is ready to record accurately as R. McGarry reaches into the kit for the tape to measure the surveyed distance.

Pointing to a map of Laos, M. Romig gives some facts to other members of a civics panel, K. Rock, A. Gourley, and T. Sanfrey.

Endless opportunities to exercise clear thinking come in mathematics classes. An exacting subject, math appeals to the student who likes to work with figures and absolute quantities. Starting with basic algebra, he progresses to geometry and trig. Then he is ready to advance in work which requires such a background, engineering, or simply more math.

Clear thinking is also needed to comprehend problems of the world. For the student interested in past events, world and United States history are offered, with geography an alternate choice. A course in civics is required to understand more fully the intricate functions of our government.

On a relief map W. Hayes identifies land surfaces, which form a major part of world geography study.

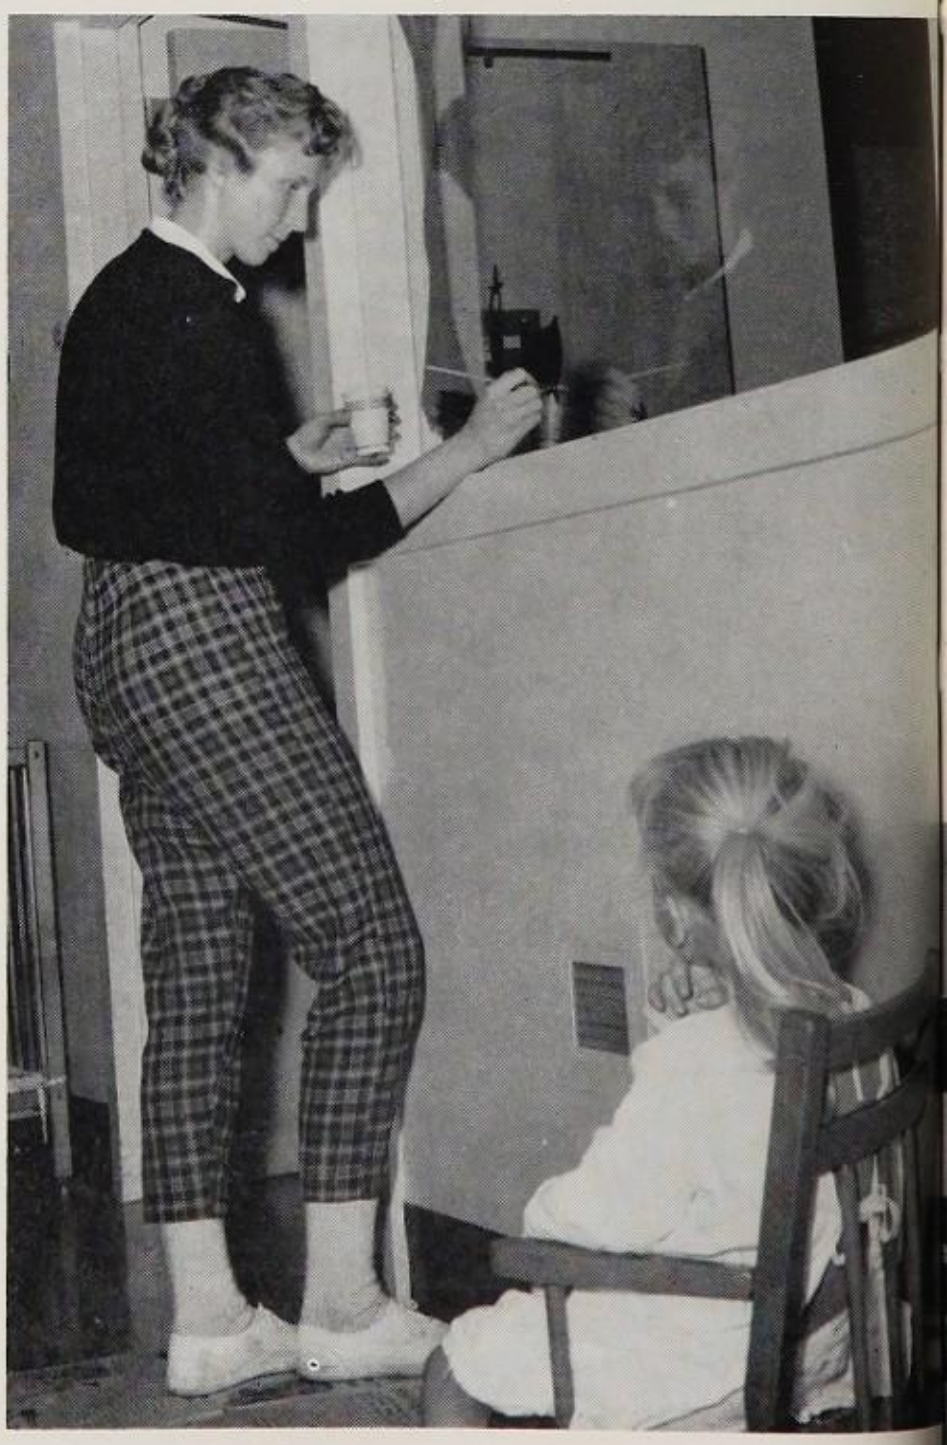


A homemade flag is helpful to N. Reed and M. Hyde in explaining the states after the Civil War.

The world of art is a field in which one is able to express his emotions. He may experiment in different types of painting, crafts, and drawings. General or basic art prepares the beginner for more advanced courses of drawing and painting or design and illustration. Theater crafts designs and produces stage scenery for plays and Frolics. Artists paint windows of the children's ward at the hospital. Driving students, besides knowing how to operate a car, must also be acquainted with safe driving rules.

Returning to his alma mater, Matt Malone shows to art students samples of modern design he painted at Youngstown University.

During the holidays children staying in the hospital were cheered by murals painted by D. Dubeck.



Learning to change tires plays an important part in driving class.

In addition to the band and A Cappella Choir, many courses are available to those interested in music. Before each Warren Community Forum, the orchestra gives a forty-five minute concert. Students intending to study music in college enroll in music theory to study fundamentals of scales and harmony. As an auxiliary to the choir, sections meet daily to practice vocal exercises. The dance band frequently entertains civic clubs and PTO groups besides playing during half-time at basketball games.

Making sure his violin is in tune for orchestra is C. Meigs.

Art and Music Provide Creative Expression

To get ready for the next a capella choir rehearsal, the boys in vocal class go over and over difficult passages of a song.

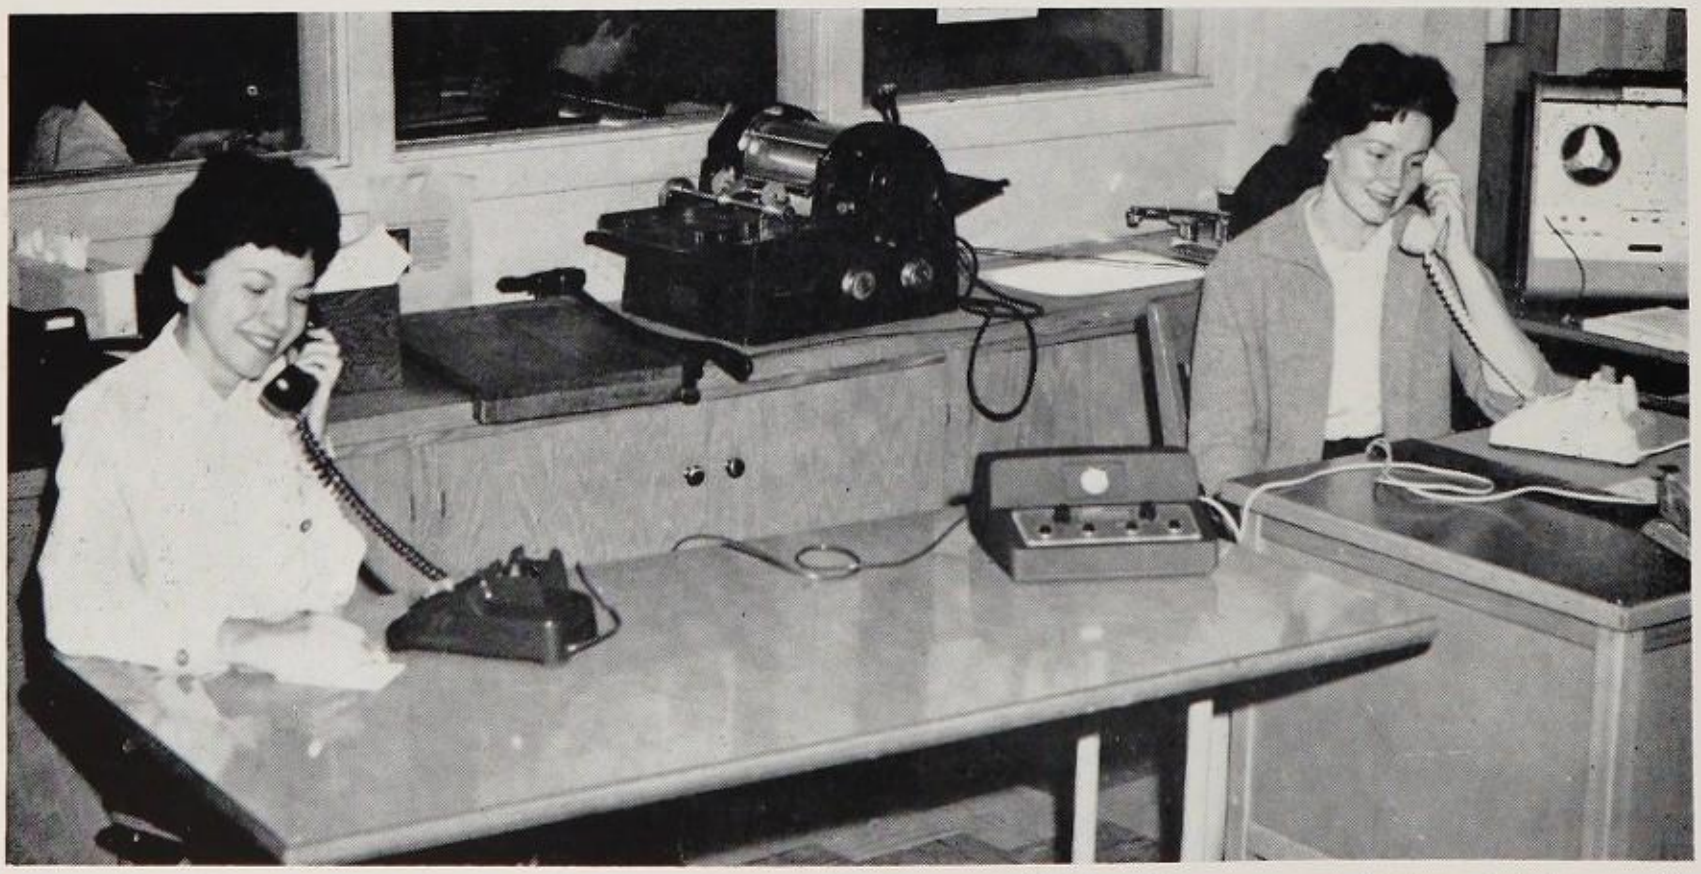
Dance band members, who meet during their lunch hours finally produce that desired smooth sound after many hours of practice.

A calculating machine is mastered by N. Robbins.

A dictaphone helps D. Barrick save valuable time while typing.

Efficiency Is the Aim of Future Secretaries

Although secretarial work is the aspiration of many girls, much hard work goes into learning certain business techniques. A two-year course in shortland and transcription gives the student ability to take dictation smoothly and efficiently. Business machines such as calculators, electric typewriters and dictaphones provide the prospective secretary with true-to-life problems and situations.



A teletrainer loaned to the school teaches future secretaries E. Yaugo and C. Dray how to answer business telephone calls.

Useful Arts Develop Tomorrow's Homemaker

New appliances and electronic kitchens will lessen the work to be done by the busy homemaker. Nevertheless, a good background in basic homemaking is necessary to run the home. Tomorrow's homemaker may in high school elect clothing, home nursing, cooking, child care, or home furnishing. The sewing department teaches the girl how to fashion clothes for herself. In cooking, nourishing foods are made and served properly. Home living provides the opportunity to learn how to furnish and keep the home. Through this course a girl becomes acquainted with everyday situations.

Making sure her skirt fits, M. Harris watches L. Van Deusen adjust the waistline in sewing class.

Refinishing a chair proves to R. Russomano and F. Bennet: that home furnishing class is practical.

When the foods class prepares to serve a meal for guests, M. Pulca knows that it's always important to set a table correctly.

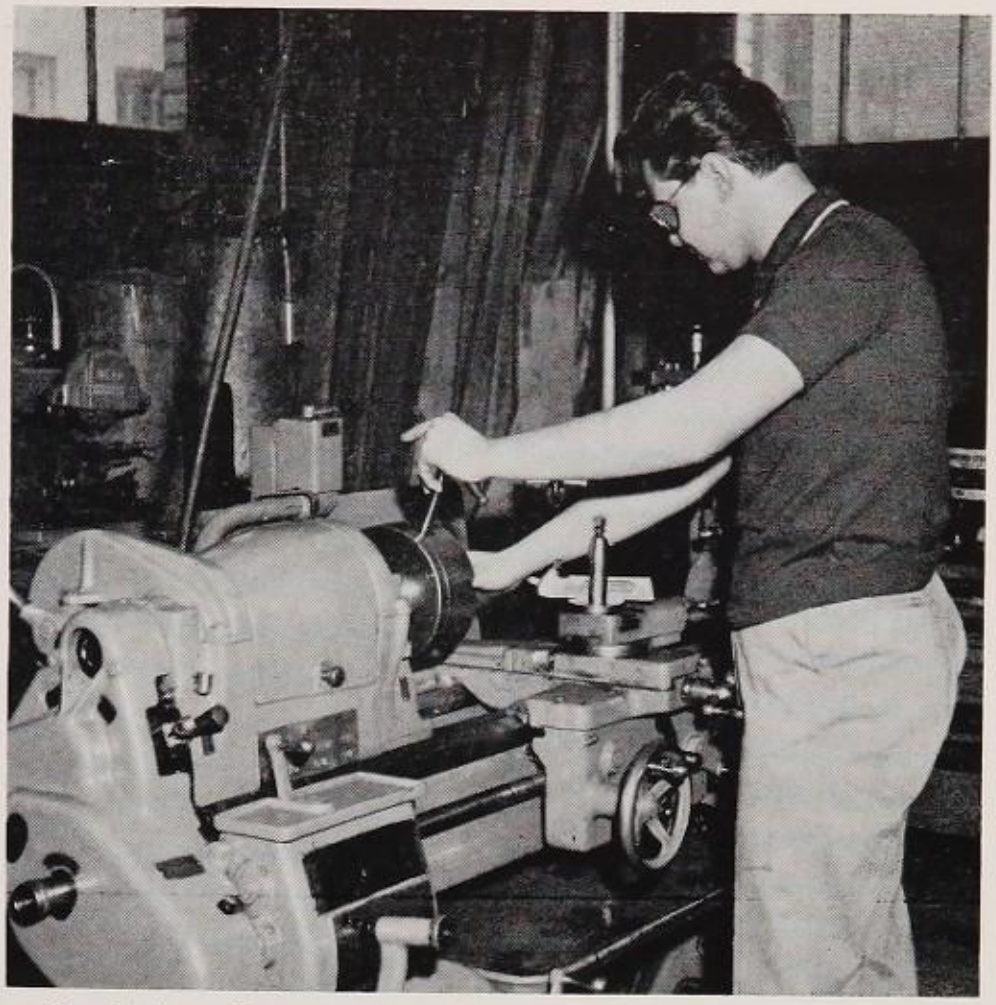
In drafting class accuracy is acquired by L. Linorell in his drawing with the use of the drafting machine.

Shop Courses Pave the Way to Vocations

Preparing for a career by actual experience is the main purpose of vocational courses. Shapes of tomorrow's machinist, draftsman and mechanic are being formed through extensive shop facilities. In auto shop, boys learn by actually repairing cars loaned to the school from local sources. Vocational machine shop teaches the operation of intricate machines. Future architects apply design and scale techniques to practical uses with modern equipment. To be responsible for getting and keeping a job is the basic requirement for distributive education students. Members learn retail sales techniques and salesman qualities in the morning, then work on their job in the afternoon.

Distributive Education gives D. Steinbeck a chance to improve his salesmanship by trying to satisfy P. Mazey with her needs.

After many days of work A. Kreller finishes his coat rack in woodshop class.



Metal shop offers E. Sapino the opportunity to learn the use of the engine lathe and other machines used in this skilled vocation.

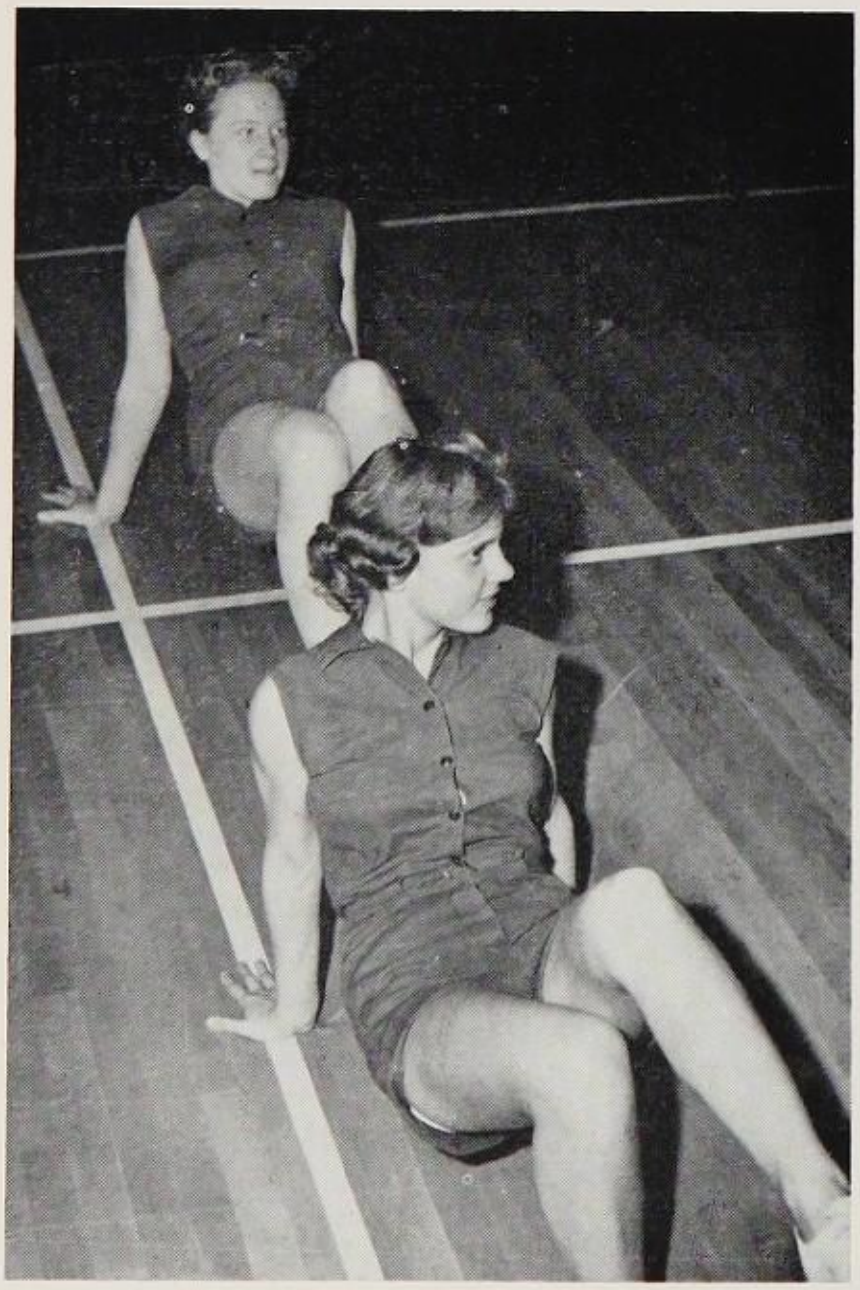
Each shop provides opportunity for creative expression through practical knowledge. Ambitious projects such as construction of a cedar chest or end table give the student a sense of proud achievement. Operation of valuable machinery is entrusted to boys only after they have shown enough maturity and clear thinking to handle it.

Students from the juniors highs are shown by E. Fini the various equipment used in the electrical shop.

As a part of the health class curriculum H. Smith administers artificial respiration to T. Peterson.

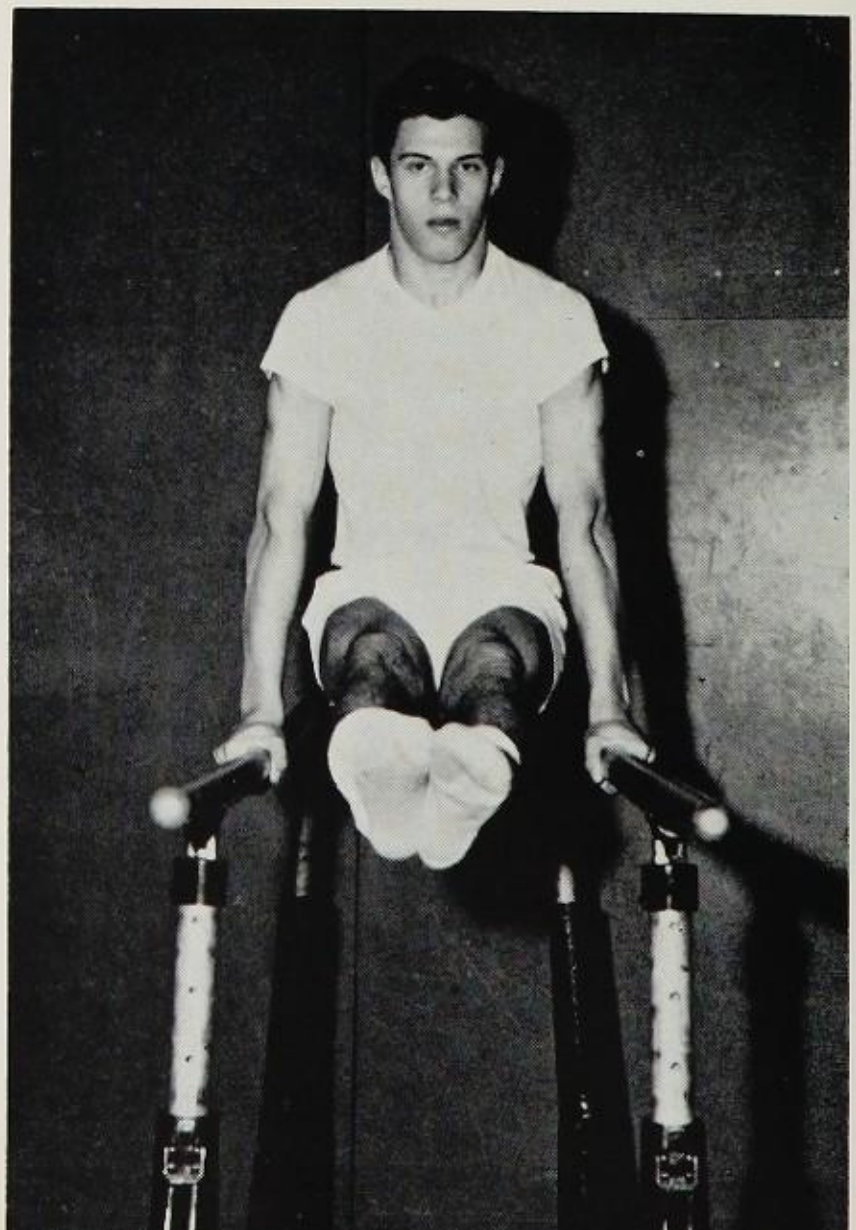
As a supplement to physical education classes, all tenth graders are required to take a course in health. Here they get a basic knowledge of first aid and what to do in case of emergencies. Gym classes exercise weekly, knowing that keeping in good physical condition is always important. Tests to determine physical endurance are required of both boys and girls. Classes also participate in such games as soccer, basketball, handball and volleyball to encourage an interest in sports.

Health and Gym Classes Build Strong Bodies

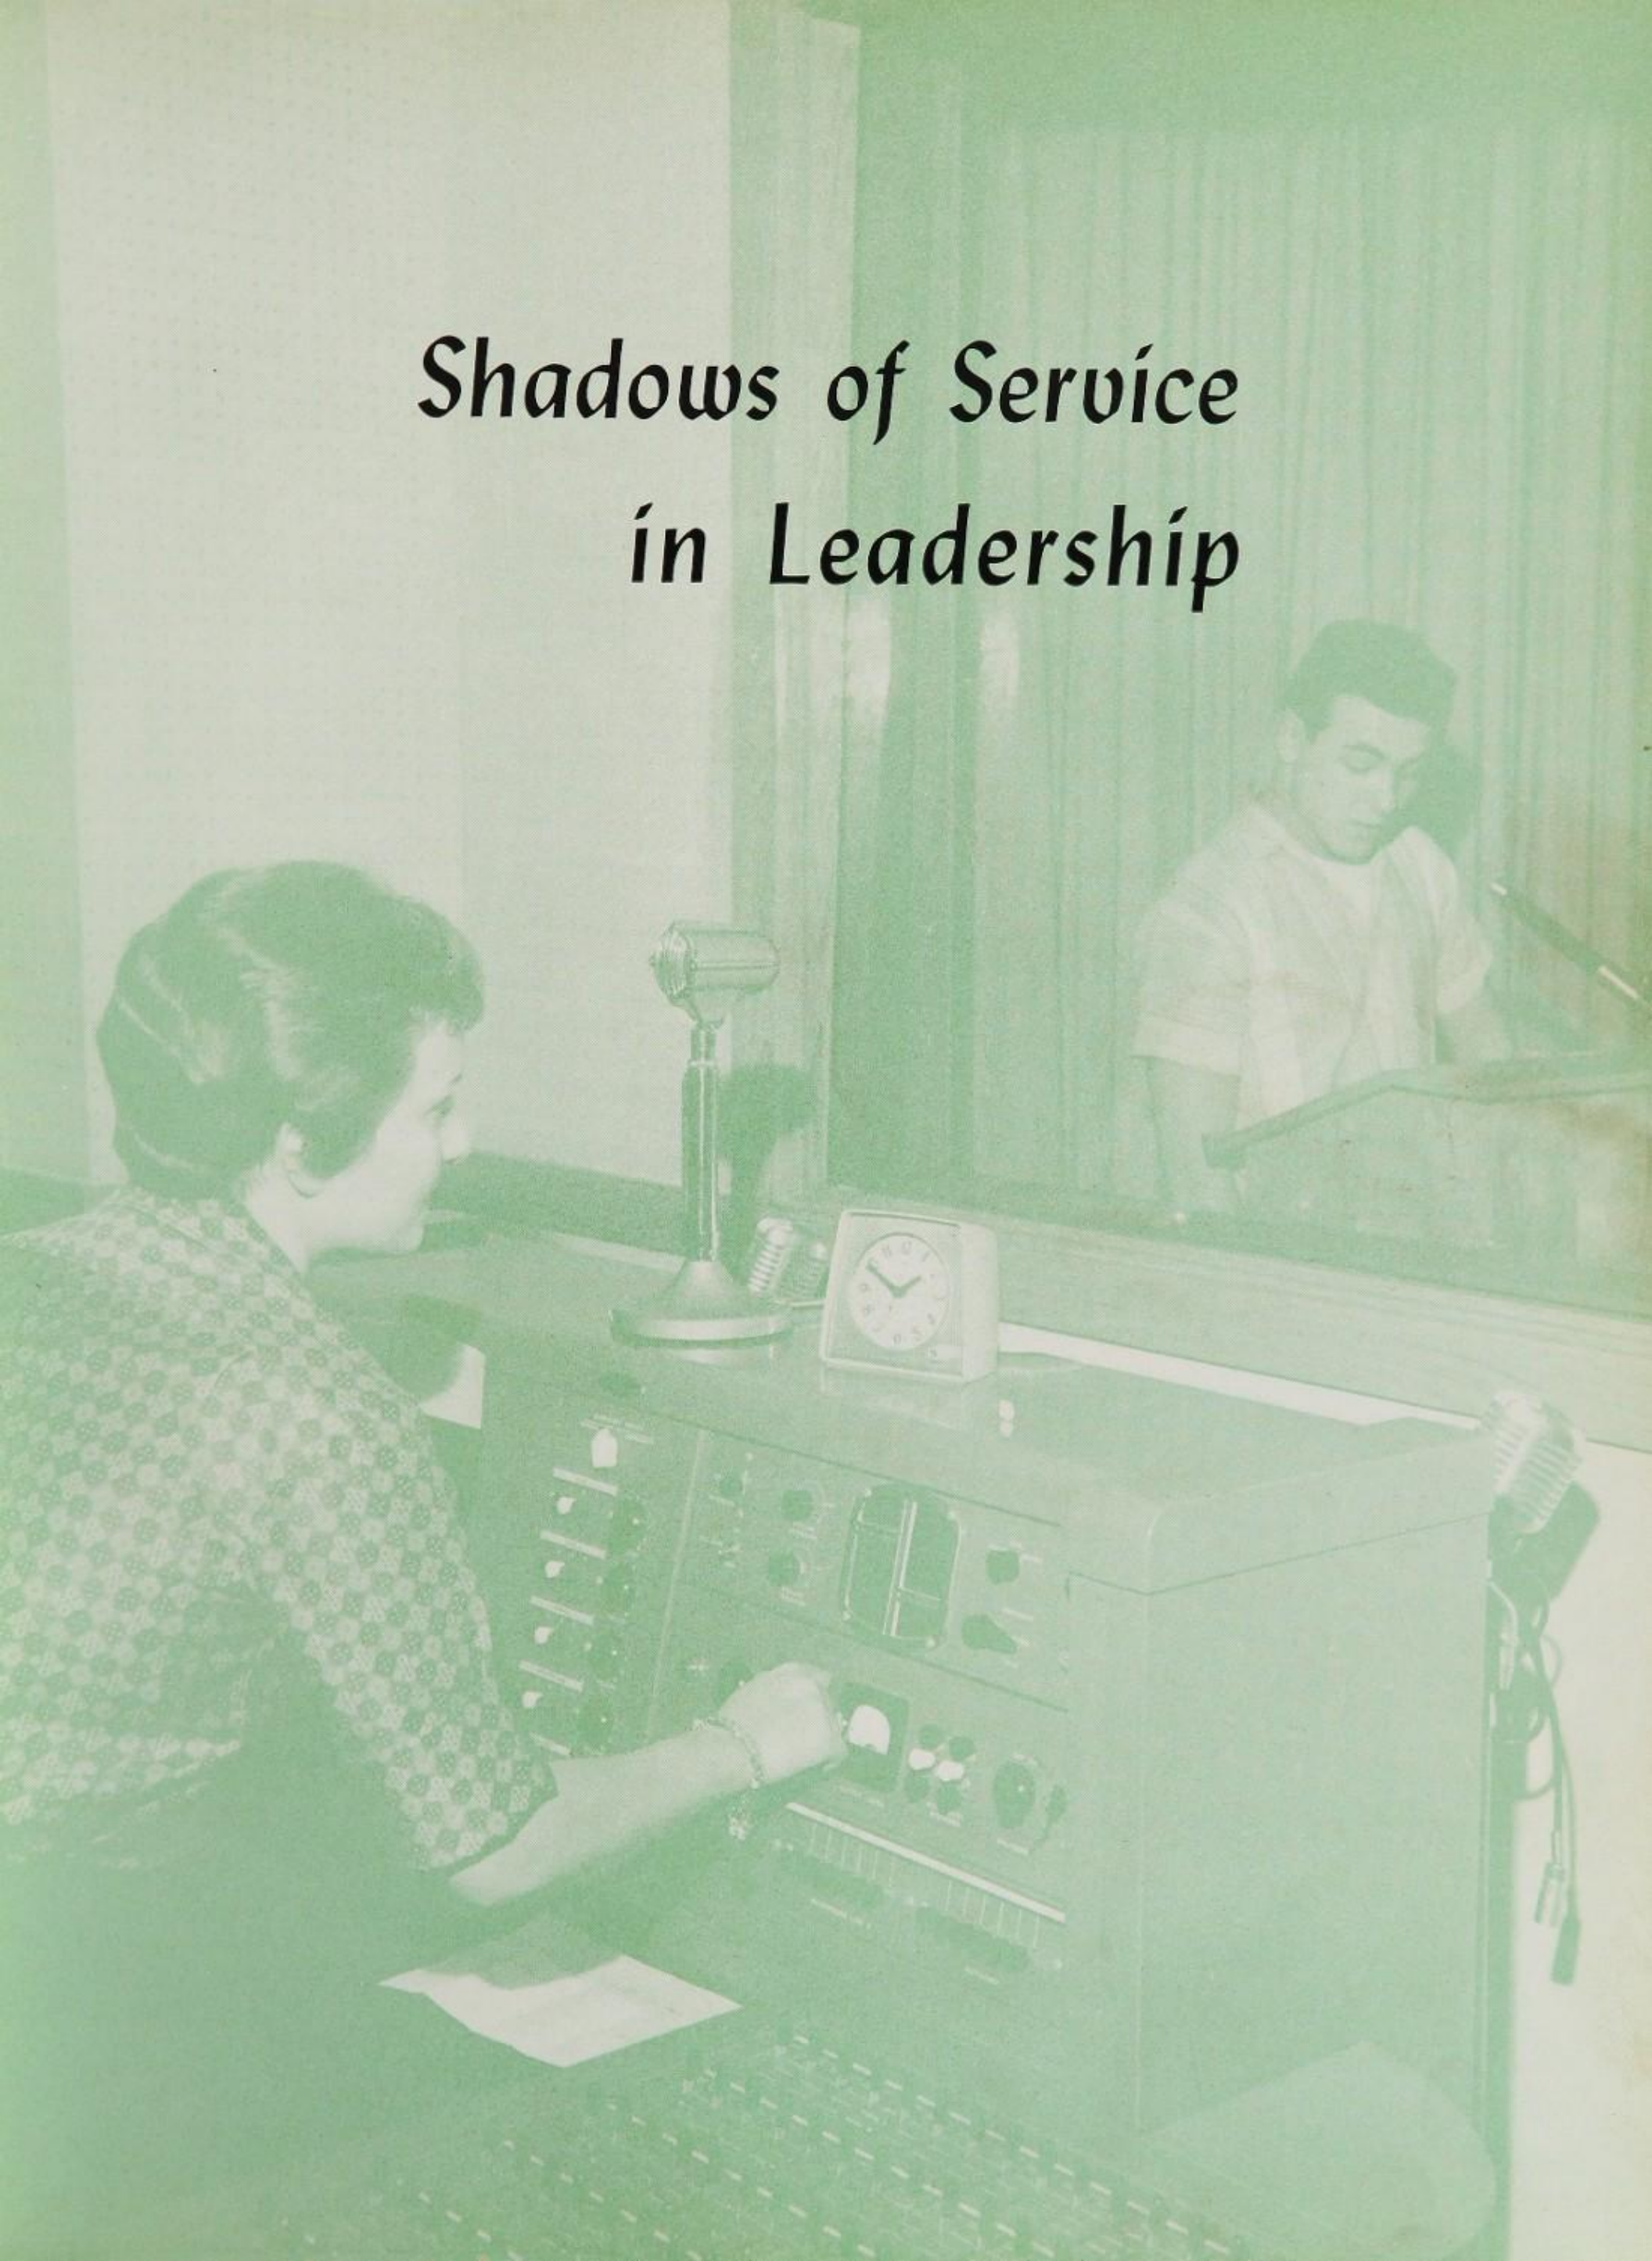


Practicing the crab walk, C. Richen and J. Blazonik get ready for one phase of girls' endurance tests.

Developing muscular coordination by performing on parallel bars is L. Stangasser.

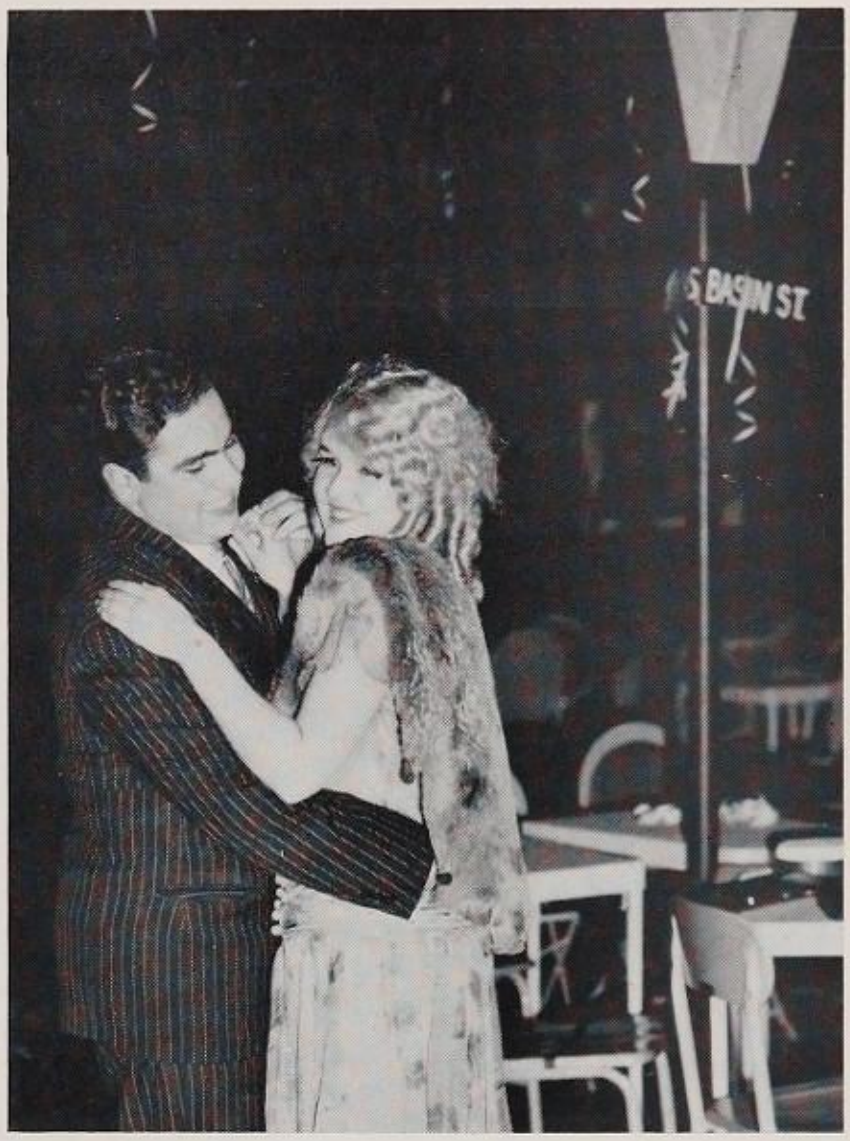


Shadows of Service in Leadership



Mardi Gras Offers a Chance to Masquerade

Reigning as Rex and Regina at the annual French and Spanish Club Mardi Gras were Ted Rodosovich and Elaine Bowman. The field house was appropriately decorated with lamp posts and street signs to emphasize this year's theme, "Basin Street." Colorful floral sprays made the wrought-iron throne more attractive. In true carnival style, all who attended wore costumes, vieing for prizes awarded to the best dressed, craziest, and most original.



Al Capone (S. Binikos) forgets problems of gangland for a moment to dance with his flapper sweetheart (N. Kistler).

As president of Spanish Club, G. Patulea has the honor of crowning the regina at the 1960 Mardi Gras, while K. Isler, president of French Club, stands by to crown the rex. The little crown bearers are P. Lacella and M. Pasha.

In varied attire, bermudas, sunglasses, and catcher mits, twelve delegates ready to leave for Buckeye Boys' State at Ohio University to study political and governmental affairs are: Standing, M. Queen, President and Delegates Are Leaders

Juniors show their leadership qualities through the year. Late last spring, twelve boys were chosen by their classmates to represent Harding at the annual Buckeye Boys' State held on the Ohio University campus. Gary Richetto, voted Governor of Boys' State, was elected, when a junior, to lead our student body this year. Those attending the Pep Club Coronation Ball elected a junior, Jill Lafferty, to reign as Winter Sports queen.

Highest honor of the school is accepted by G. Richetto, student body president, as Principal Mollenkopf administers the oath.

and Enhances Holiday Festivities

Suspense lay over the Y-Teens Christmas formal as seven active Y-Teens awaited the announcement of who would be queen. Choosen to reign was Noreen Parry. Her court included J. Park, C. Kemp, L. Colorfully costumed members of Y-Teens and Hi-Y present their gifts to the Christ Child during the annual Christmas assembly.

Drama and Character Portray Holiday Spirit

The Christmas season is a happy one with many traditional activities. Y-Teens, who alternate annually with Hi-Y in the presentation of an assembly, staged "Of Peace and Love," depicting representatives of each country of the world bearing gifts to the manger. A feeling of peace and brotherhood was created. Suspense was aroused while two celebrities, Craig (Peter Gunn) Stevens and Alexis Smith, judged the Hap Holiday-Mary Christmas contest sponsored by High Life. Winners were Kathleen Isler and Richard Laraway.

Annual High Life Hap Holiday-Mary Christmas contest winners are R. Laraway and K. Isler.

Each Club Has Voice in Establishing Policy

Two representatives from Harding attended Girls' State, held for ten days this summer at Capital University in Columbus. After American History teachers submitted names of outstanding students, all girls of the class voted, electing Nancy Trimbur and Elaine Bowman. Through a mock government, the pair learned about governmental work and politics. Elaine served on the State Board of Education while Nancy acted as mayor of her city.

Packing their suitcases are N. Trimbur and E. Bowman as they prepare to go to Girls' State.

Upperclassmen Earn Places in Honor Society

J. Bowker, 1959 class president, presents $500 for the scholarship fund to J. Deible.

Twice a year, students selected on the basis of scholarship, character, service, and leadership are tapped during an impressive ceremony for membership in National Honor Society. Tax stamp collections are held frequently throughout the school, and proceeds from the stamps are used as scholarship money for worthy Harding students. To supplement the scholarship fund, the organization sponsors two school dances a year. Senior members participate in a speaking chorus at graduation exercises.

Government Offices Await Ambitious Leaders

Enrollment in a social studies or government course marks eligibility to join Hi-Eco-Sy. Fundamentals of running a city are made clearer with talks by guest speakers and tours of political or administrative offices. Members earn points by attending council meetings, distributing handbills, conducting mock elections at school and similar projects. Assignments to fill a city office for the day are made in accordance with the number of points each has earned during the year.

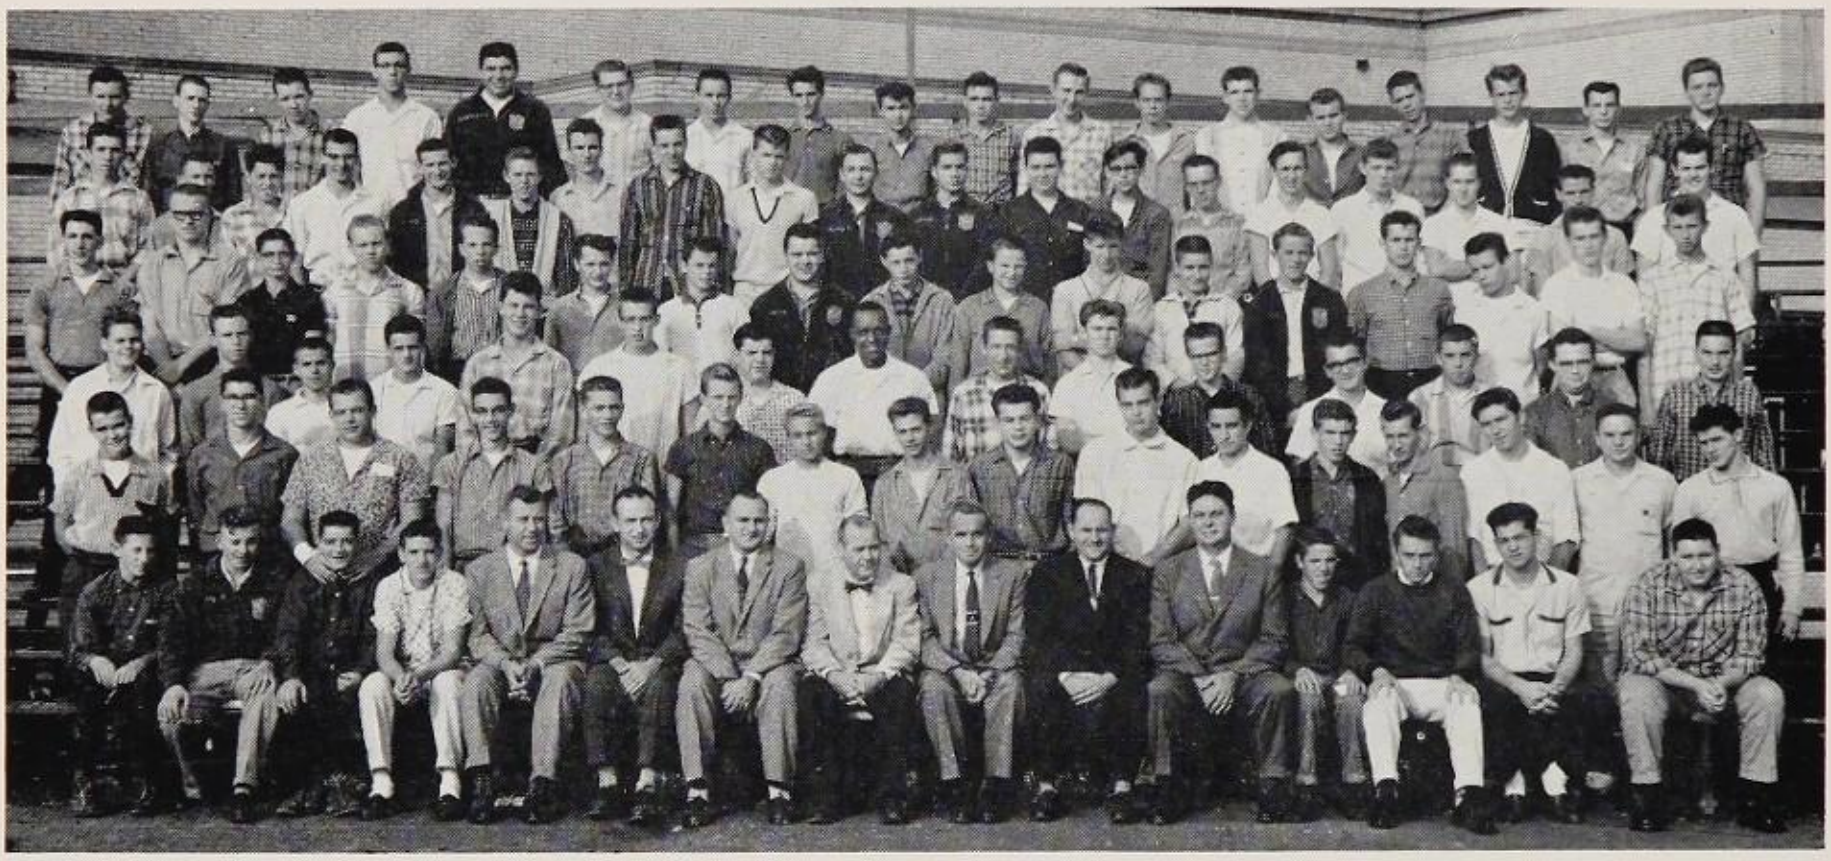
Rigorous tryouts for new members begin the Dramatics Club year. Long evening rehearsals preceded this year's play, "The People versus Maxine Lowe," story of a woman on trial for murder. The club also issues to its members a newspaper "Sock and Buskin," which gives reviews of current Broadway plays and news of past members. The annual drama workshop at Kent State University provides various tips on scenery and make-up. Those who have earned at least 100 points by participating in plays and working on stage sets are invited to join Thespian Troupe 1249, an organization for more ambitious dramatists.

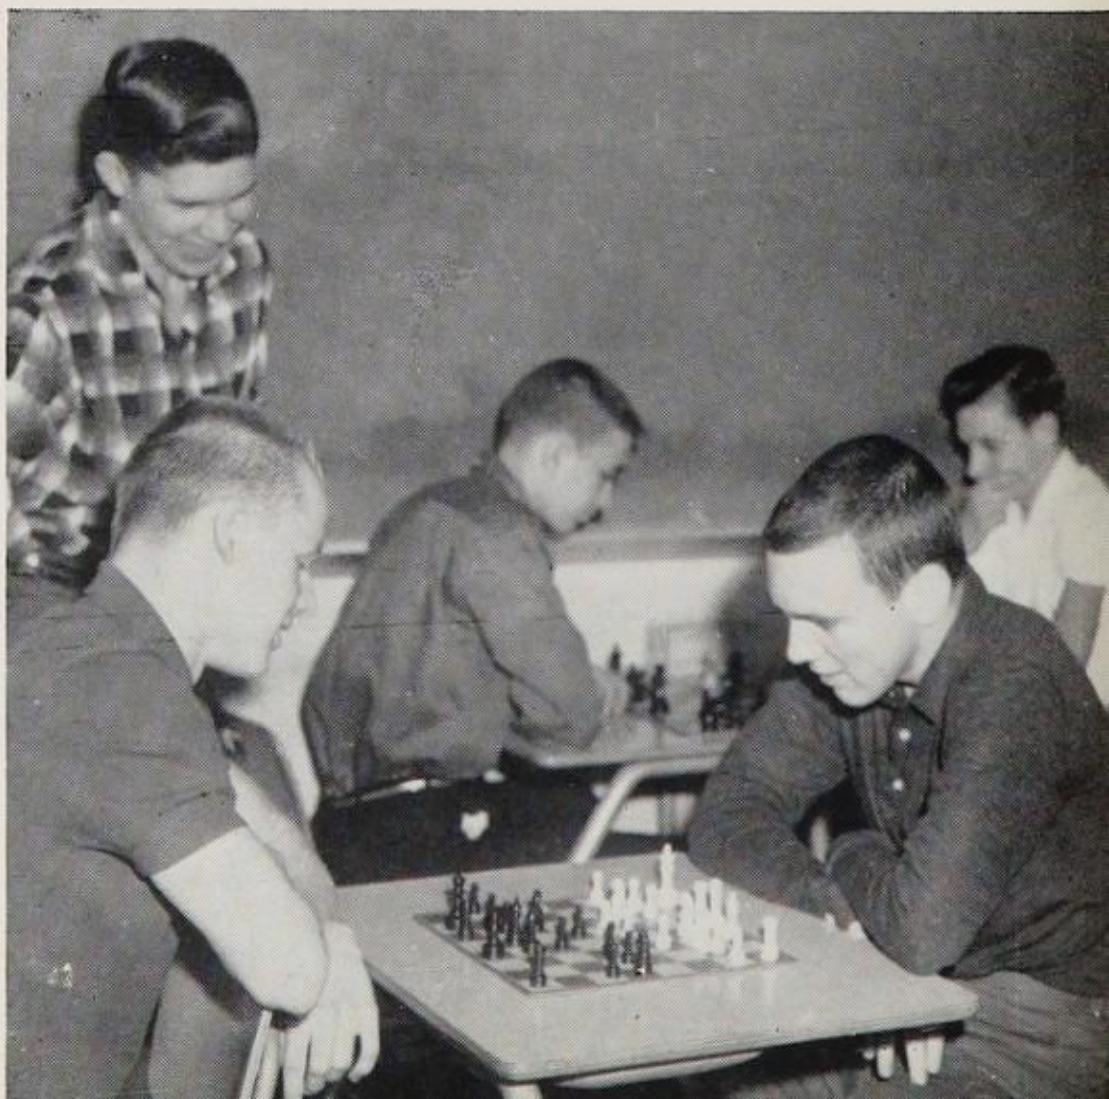
As judge J. Finn watches, defense attorney J. Latcham fights for his client's life with state's attorney M. Romig in "The People versus Maxine Lowe."

Memberships Vary According to Interests

Club membership in some groups, such as the Vocational Industrial Club, is large, but in others like Chess Club the number is small. In V.I.C. group participation is emphasized, whereas the latter stresses individual attention. Many boys with concurring interest work together in V.I.C. The "game of kings" draws its fans to spend noon and after school hours in intense concentration.



One of the largest clubs in the school is the Vocational Industrial Club. Six smaller clubs, one from each vocational shop class, unite to form the larger one. In past years, members of Harding's groups have held positions in the state V.I.C. club.



F. McMillin watches as J. Nelson and R. Chako engage in a hot game of chess during the noon hour. In the background J. Geaman and R. Kornmueller use patience and concentration in planning the next move.

High Life Reports School Events

Visiting Junior Achievement open house, B. Asid interviews T. Lewis and G. Ferance for an article.

At the print shop, A. Mikulan, Mrs. Sinner, J. Heller, editor; A. McFarland and J. Substanley make up pages.

Getting out a bi-weekly paper requires much time and work for fifteen staff members. A High Life story starts by contacting a news source. The notes acquired must be written up, corrected and copyread. The editor enters the story on the dummy and sends it to the printer. At the print shop the entire page is set in type, proofread and then printed. It is the job of staff members to fold, count and distribute the edition. Every issue is read by over two thousand people.

K. Williams, B. Kersten, R. Slanco, J. Biddlestone and C. Dillard fold newspapers hot off the press.

Distributing High Lifes are M. Davis, J. Mozina, D. Roman, B. Pfennighaus, E. Golick, and S. Harden.

Staffs Spend Many Hours Publishing Echoes . . .

For nearly a year before the Echoes is presented to the student body, plans and arrangements are made for its publication. The staff takes pride in its view of the year's activities, curriculum, sports, students and faculty.

First steps in editing the Echoes is laying out the dummy, the task of editor M. Schiewe and assistant editor B. Wollam.

Next, the book goes to photographers and section editors I. Seifer, S. Beal, R. Slanco, J. Porrini, C. Connell, D. Dubeck, J. Heller, (rear) R. Monteneri, F. Coleman, and G. Patulea.

Final preparation of the pages before going to the printer is done by the typists (seated) E. Yaugo, J. Moran, R. Scheow, M. Scarpaci, (standing) D. Roman, R. Hawkins, B. Scoville, and E. Cuppet.

Annual Cauldron

Prose and poetry for publication in the Cauldron are submitted through English teachers. The staff selects about 75 of nearly 600 entries for the magazine. It is a distinct honor when one receives an invitation to the annual tea, which indicates that his selection is to be published.

Finding inspiration in last year's Cauldron treasure chest are members of this year's staff: J. Jose, M. Scarpaci, T. LaBaugh, E. Yaugo, L. Wagy, G. Toth, S. Wonders, N. Kistler, B. Kersten.

Shadows of Competition
WARR

Huge Crowds Cheer Our Courageous Football

Amidst the pride of acquiring a new stadium, which was filled to capacity game after game, the 1959 BLACK PANTHERS completed one of their toughest but most exciting football seasons. Thrills galore were provided by a team that never stopped fighting.

The season opened with a win over Cleveland Collinwood, 34-13. The game had a tremendous start as Paul Warfield took the opening kickoff and sped by the Railroaders on a 90-yard touchdown jaunt. The next time Harding got the ball, Willie Jones broke loose on a 76-yard run from scrimmage for the score. Willie scored twice more before Collinwood could pick up. The clincher was added by Warfield on a 45-yard run. With this preview of what was to come, the 1959 season unfolded.

The Canton McKinley Bulldogs moved in to test the Panthers, and were soundly thumped, 27-14. Marvin Howard twice showed his heels to the Bulldog tacklers as he scored two touchdowns. Warfield also scored two touchdowns in the Panthers' second win.

With Warfield providing the necessary scoring punch, the Panthers won their third straight game of the year, 13-7 over the Steubenville Big Red. His runs of 69 and 72 yards proved enough for the win, although the Big Red started a comeback in the second half which netted them one TD. They fell short however when Warfield intercepted a pass with one minute remaining.

With revenge in mind for a 16-6 loss last year, the Panthers took on the Steelers from Lorain. The Steelers scored first, but Doug Brown tied it up for Harding, 6-6, and this score stood until the fourth quarter. Then lightning struck the Lorain team as Warfield rocketed through for a touchdown and added the two-point conversion for a 14-6 lead. Lorain came thundering back and on a completed pass the score was 14-12, but the Panthers rose to the occasion and stopped the try for two points, earning for themselves a thrilling victory.

Gloom hung heavy over Panthers after the Potters from East Liverpool pinned a 14-13 defeat on Warren. The Potters scored first but were quickly headed on a pass from Doug Brown to Greg Ferance. The score was 7-6 at halftime. In the second half East Liverpool had added a second touchdown and the two points made it 14-7 when Howard took a punt and raced 75 yards for the score. But Warren's joy was short-lived as the try for 2 points and the win failed, and Liverpool went wild.

The Panthers came right back, though, and with rain and mud to make playing bad, they defeated Cleveland East Tech, 29-8. The Panthers scored two touchdowns, one by Brown and one by Warfield, plus a field goal by Paul just as the half ended. East Tech scored to open the second half, but Harding came right back as Brown hit Ferance with a TD pass. The final tally was scored by Brown, and the Panthers awaited the Massillon Tigers.

The Harding eleven invaded Tigertown victory-minded, but such was not the case. Massillon seemed to remember the 6-0 defeat pinned on them last year as they poured it on with 4 TD's in the first half to lead 30-0. But the Panthers came back to show the Tigers that they never stopped trying. A pass from Brown to Dick Laraway netted a TD and Warfield added the two points, but this was not enough as Harding returned home the losers, 38-8.

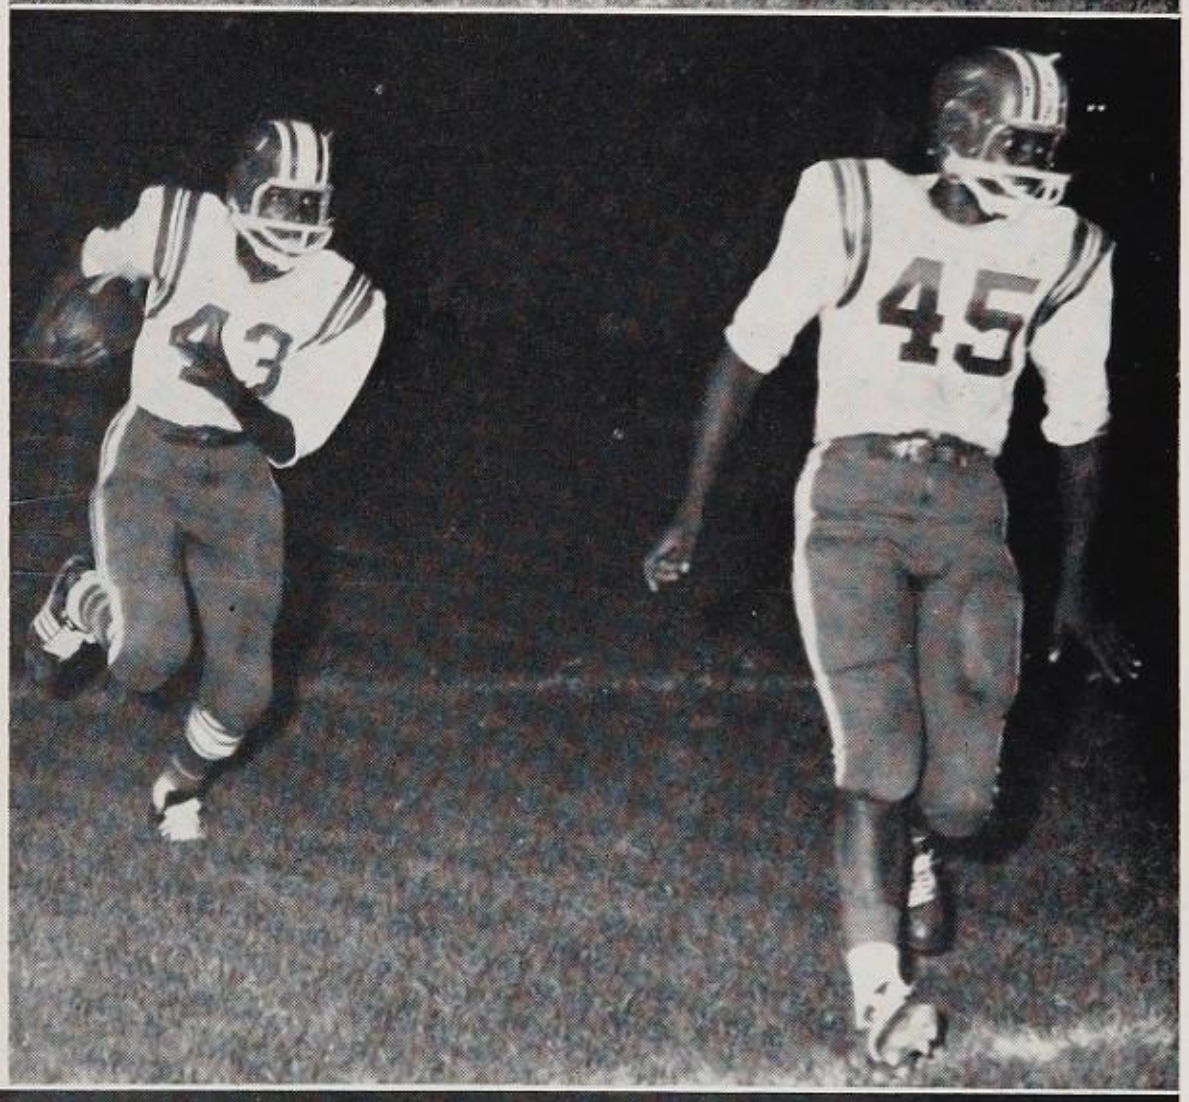
Against the Sharon Tigers the Panthers looked sluggish and after three periods the score was 14-0 in favor of Sharon. Then one of the most thrilling comebacks in years was staged by the Panthers in the fourth quarter. Brown scored first and the extra point was missed. Little time was left and things looked bad when Warfield intercepted a Sharon pass and Harding came to life. Howard carried the ball goalward and fumbled, but Ferance recovered in the end zone for the TD and victory.

The last game of the season saw the Panthers outclass the Youngstown South Warriors, 20-8. Warfield finished the season in fine style by scoring two TD's and Howard added the third as Harding ended the season with a respectable 8-2 record.

Against the McKinley Bulldogs W. Jones carries the pigskin around left end and is about to get a block from other Panthers.

A Collinwood pass for No. 28 is snatched by E. Thompson.



Goal bound is M. Howard as P. Warfield awaits enemy tacklers.

Cross Country Harriers Remain Undefeated

A good season, one filled with surprises, describes the 1959 Panther Cross Country team. The Panthers were undefeated in dual competition, winning their three meets easily. At the Bowling Green Relays, George Tracy's individual victory and the team's third place finish were firsts in Harding's history. Racked by injuries, the Panthers finished sixth in the N.E.O. District Meet; however, George Tracy and Sherwood Isom qualified for the state finals.

Cagers Spark Path to Exciting Tourney

An exciting year filled with thrills and tense moments describes the 1959-1960 Panther basketball season. The Holiday Carnival which took place during Christmas vacation, addition of the defending state champion, Cleveland East Tech team to the schedule, and a fine tournament record were outstanding features of the season.

Coach Dick Boyd's charges opened against Champion. Holding the Golden Flashes scoreless for eight and a half minutes, the Panthers went on to win 61-38 with Currington and Brugler scoring 16 and 15 apiece.

The Harding quintet moved on to Newton Falls, where they lost a real thriller 57-55 on a last minute lay-up. The Panthers led 34-27 at halftime, but the Falls second half rally overcame the lead and gave them the victory.

Behind 24-21 at the half the Panthers came on strong to beat East Liverpool 53-46. The Panthers displayed good spirit and fine teamwork in winning their second of three games.

The Massillon Tigers invaded Warren and thumped the locals 63-29. The Tigers led the Panthers the whole game, and Harding was two-two for the season.

Against Cleveland East Tech, the Harding five battled to the finish. With the Scrabs having a decided height advantage, it looked as if they might run away with the game, but the final score was 56-45 with Currington tallying 19 points.

The first Harding tournament ever held at the field house saw the Panthers emerge victorious by first beating Cleveland John Adams in a close one 60-58 and then defeating the tenth ranked team in the state, Youngstown East 58-48. Against John Adams, Warfield's lay-up with fourteen seconds remaining, accompanied by Currington's 22 points and Brugler's 14 gave Harding the win. A fine team effort netted the win over Youngstown East as Barrett and Currington scored 17 and 18 respectively.

It proved a bad night when the team traveled to Canton where Central triumphed 69-56. McGarry had 17 points, but the team could not stop the Crusaders.

Canton Lehman moved in to take a well-earned victory 49-44. Harding had numerous chances to overtake the Polar Bears, but inaccuracy cost them the game.

Harding's next foe was another Canton squad, the McKinley Bulldogs, who proved too tough and the Panthers lost 63-45. McKinley held the upper hand the entire game, leading 30-19 at halftime.

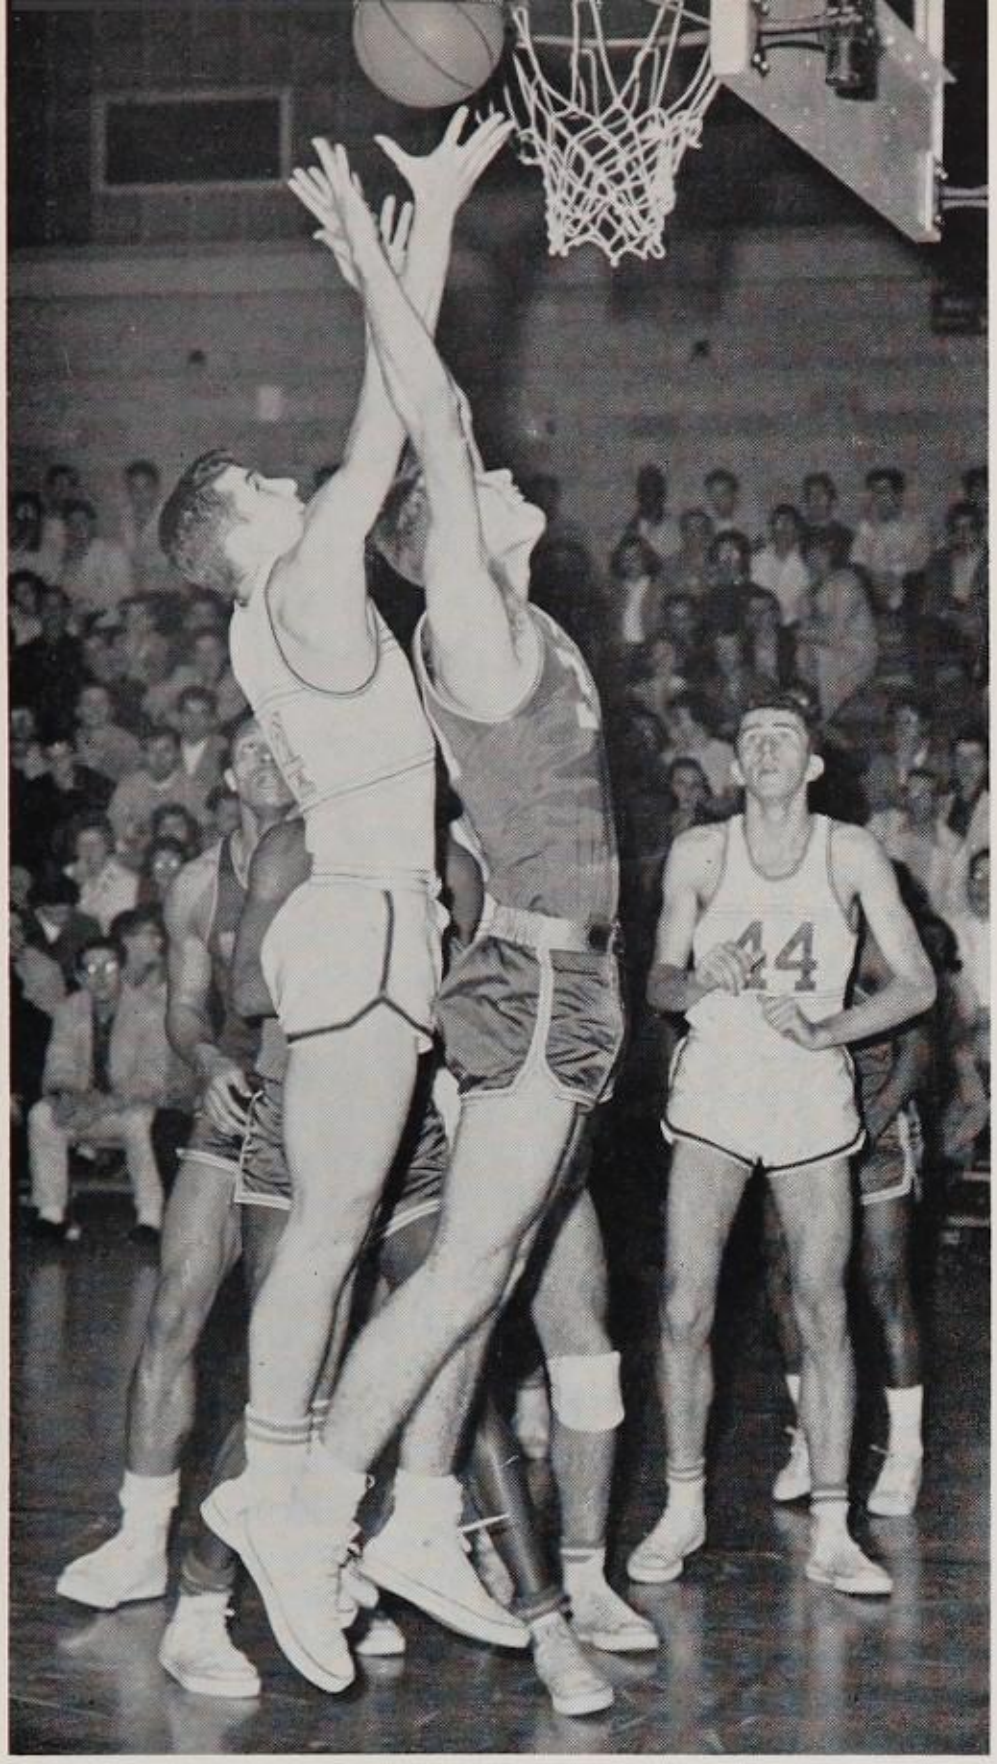
The Panthers next traveled to Salem where they took on the third-ranked Quakers. With Salem leading 33-25 at halftime, hopes for a win were not high; but in the second half the Panthers came storming back with a thrilling rally which just fell short. The final score was 65-59.

Against the Niles Red Dragons, the Panthers led 30-28 at halftime. With Currington leading the way with 12 points, the Panthers won a thriller 50-46.

Next the Hubbard Eagles played host to the Harding five. Despite the efforts of Currington with 16 points and Barrett with 14, the Panthers fell victim 61-47.

The Panthers then traveled to Mansfield for a game with the Tygers. At the end of the first quarter the Panthers trailed 27-10, and it looked dismal for the Harding five. Even though the final score was 75-62, they played a fine game.

The Harding quintet beat Struthers 55-36 with a second half rally that netted 36 points.



R. McGarry grabs the rebound amidst numerous opponents.

The score was tied 19-19 at the half, but with 17 points by McGarry and 16 by Barrett the Panthers brought home the victory.

The Alliance Aviators were the next foe. With fine all around play, 19 points by Currington and 14 by Brugler, the Panthers on 52-39.

The Hardingites then took on the Trojans from Canton Timken. Despite 15 points and 14 by Beach and Brugler, the game ended with the Panthers on the short end of a 52-48 score.

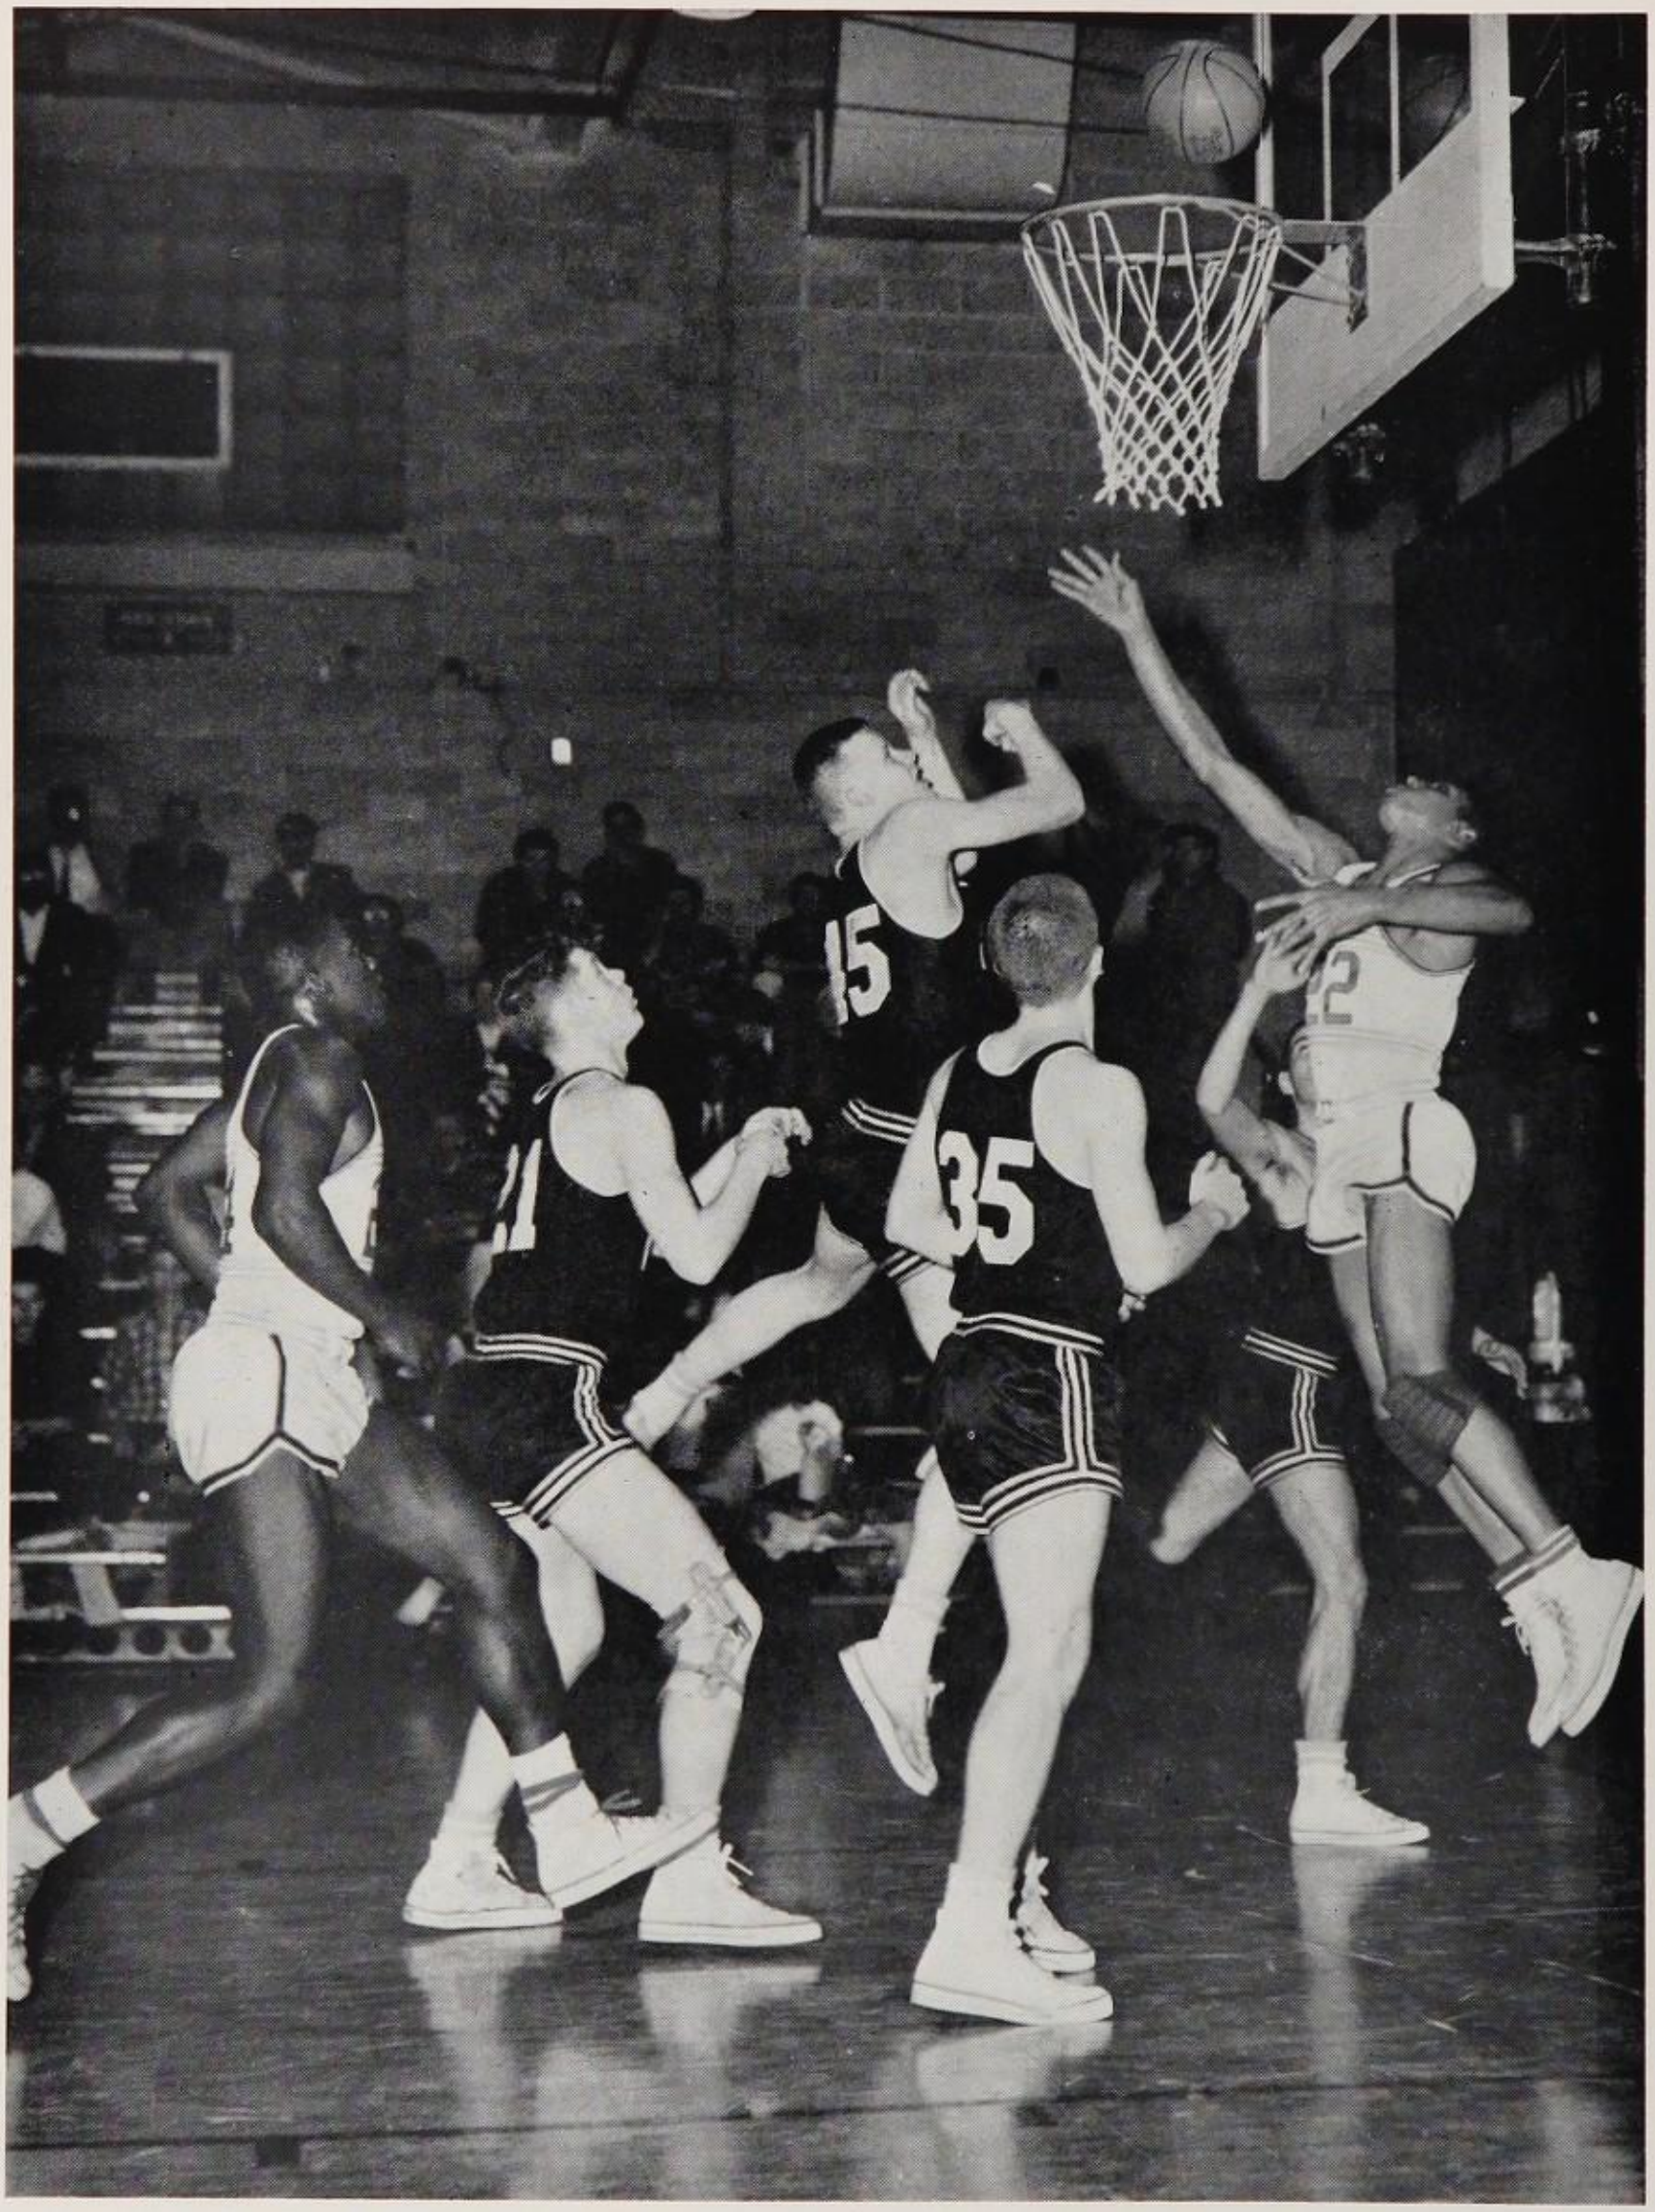
The Panthers finished their season with a loss to Cuyahoga Falls 73-49. A fine game by the Tigers kept the Panthers from closing the gap.

One of the finest tournament records in many years was achieved by Harding's cage team. Not expected to advance too far, they proceded to knock off Girard 47-46 and copped a 46-43 win over the Howland Tigers. One of the biggest upsets of the year took place when Harding defeated the second seated Salem Quakers 54-52. The Panthers then took on Poland to win their fourth straight tourney game 57-54.

The Panthers met the Niles Red Dragons for the District championship in one of the most thrilling and hard fought games of the year. Despite fine team effort the Panthers lost the game 58-52 to become District runners-up.

The Panthers finished the season with an 11-12 record but gave a fine account of themselves and provided many thrills for Warren followers.

Closely guarded, R. Barrett dribbles between two defense-minded opponents and prepares himself to drive in for a shot.



An unusual shot enables N. Spencer to outwit four surprised opponents, while P. Warfield comes racing in to assist.

Cindermen Place High in State Competition

The 1959 Harding track team swept through a successful season, taking first place honors in the Bellaire Relays, the Warren Invitational, and the Northeastern Ohio District Meet. It copped the runner-up trophy at the Muskingum Relays. The team ended its season with an eighth place finish in the State Finals.

In the opening tri-school meet of the season, Warren set the pace by capturing first place with 73½ points. Massillon followed second with 59 and Braceville trailed to third place with 14½.

Outscoring twelve other teams, Warren swept first place at the Warren Invitational with 85 points. Far below was second Alliance, who amassed only 45 points.

Competing among 25 teams at the Muskingum Relays, the cindermen finished second while Cleveland East Tech scored first place honors.

The eight points the Panthers scored in the State Finals were won by Paul Warfield, who finished third in both the broad jump and the low hurdles; Marvin Howard, who took fifth place in the hundred yard dash; and the half-mile relay team, which also took fifth.

During the year Paul Warfield set new school records in the broad jump with 22 feet 11 inches and in the 180-yard low hurdles with a time of 19.8 seconds. Bob Rantilla also set a new school mark in the half mile run with a time of two minutes one second.

Coach George Johnson and Assistant Coach Jim Keadle deserve much credit for establishing the Panthers as a track powerhouse, and the 1960 team should be a real threat with the return of Howard, Rantilla, and Warfield.

P. Warfield leads the rest of the field on the first turn in the 180 — yard low hurdles in the Warren relays.

Good form is shown by T. Rodosovich as he prepares to give a mighty heave in the discus event.

An all-out effort is made by E. Thompson as he scores a record leap in the broad jump event.

A final burst of speed brings M. Howard close to the tape in the 100 yard dash of the second Warren Invitational Track Meet.

Inexperienced Golfers Have Bright Future

The 1959 golf team, under the coaching of Phil Koppel experienced a good season, despite it being a losing one. The team lacked experience because of the graduation of all linksmen of the previous year; however, they scored victories in five out of eleven regular matches. In the District Meet, which fielded forty-one teams, Harding finished twelfth. The future is bright, however, with the return of three of the team for the 1960 season, Rick Baird, Dave Kellogg, and Ron Capak.

Being the first undefeated tennis team in Harding's history was a distinct honor for the 1959 squad. They also captured the Mahoning Valley Scholastic Tennis League championship. Their seven victories included two blank-outs and only one opponent, Massillon, managed more than one point. Among the teams shut out was powerful Youngstown Rayen, which in the previous season robbed Warren of an unbeaten campaign by handing the Panthers their only two setbacks. In the District Meet held at Akron, Pat Was and Dennis Frenchko reached the semi-finals before being eliminated.

The 1959 baseball team finished the season with an 8-5 record. The season began with convincing wins over Avon Lake and Niles and included a second place finish in the District. The Diamondmen were beaten in a heartbreaker 2-1 by Struthers for the District title.

After the tournaments, the defense weakened and cost the team two victories, while the hitting department continued to provide many thrills with extra base hits.

Some of the highlights of the season were Gene Crutchley's tremendous hitting, finishing with a .500 average, and the selection of Jan Lendak as an All-Ohio All Star first baseman. He then went to Columbus where he played three games this past summer.

Swim Team Sets Many Records First Year

One of the new activities of Harding's year-round sports program is swimming. Lacking experience, the Panthers finished the season with a one and four record; however, the boys gave a good account of themselves in tournament competition. They finished fourth at the District Meet at Kent and tied for fourth in the State competition where forty-four teams took part. Throughout the season, the Panthers set many pool records which highlighted their first year under the coaching of Glen Moore.

The Harding wrestlers under Coach Lou Parker enjoyed a good season winning three out of seven meets but losing a couple by very close scores. However, the Panthers placed high in both the Hiram Invitational and District Tournaments. At Hiram the matmen placed fourth out of thirteen teams and in the District out of twenty-two teams they finished sixth. Bob Kent qualified for state competition by placing first in the district. He defeated the boy from Mansfield but was beaten three to two by Pokovich in the quarter finals.

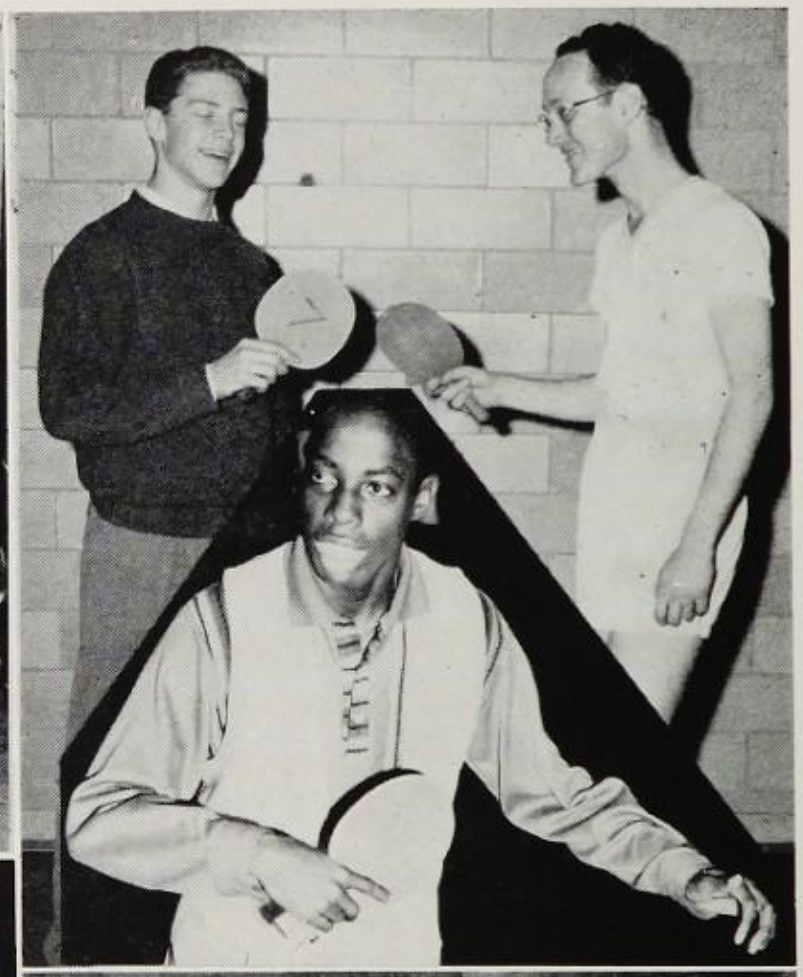
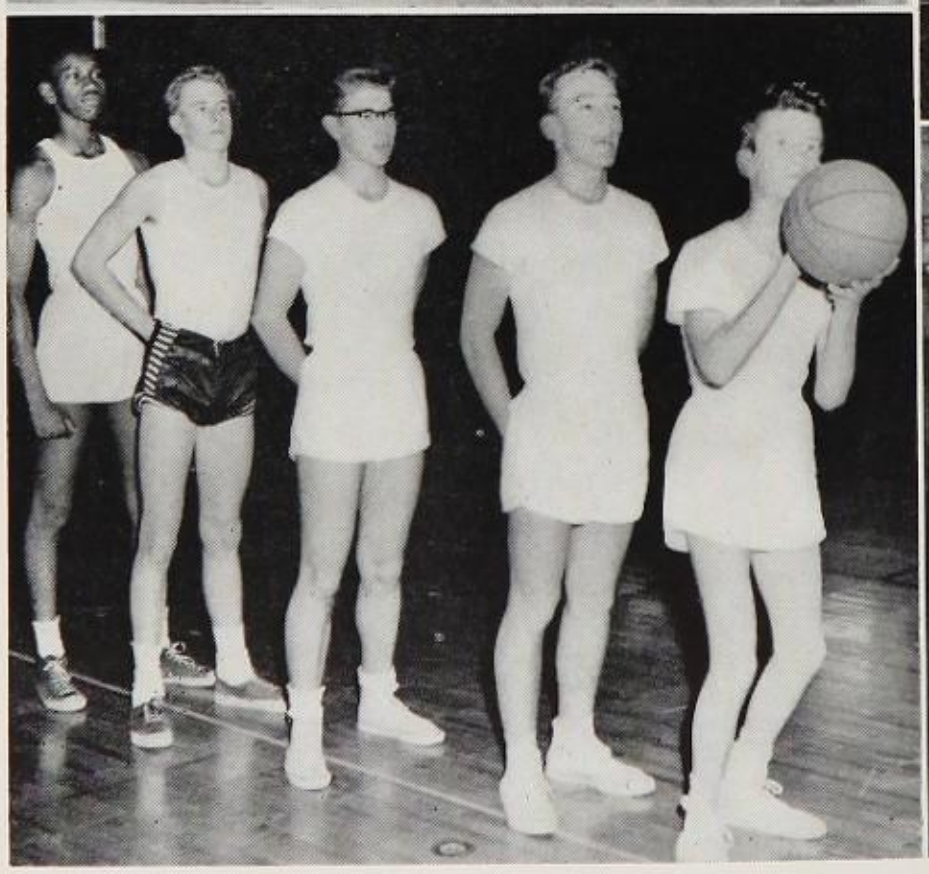
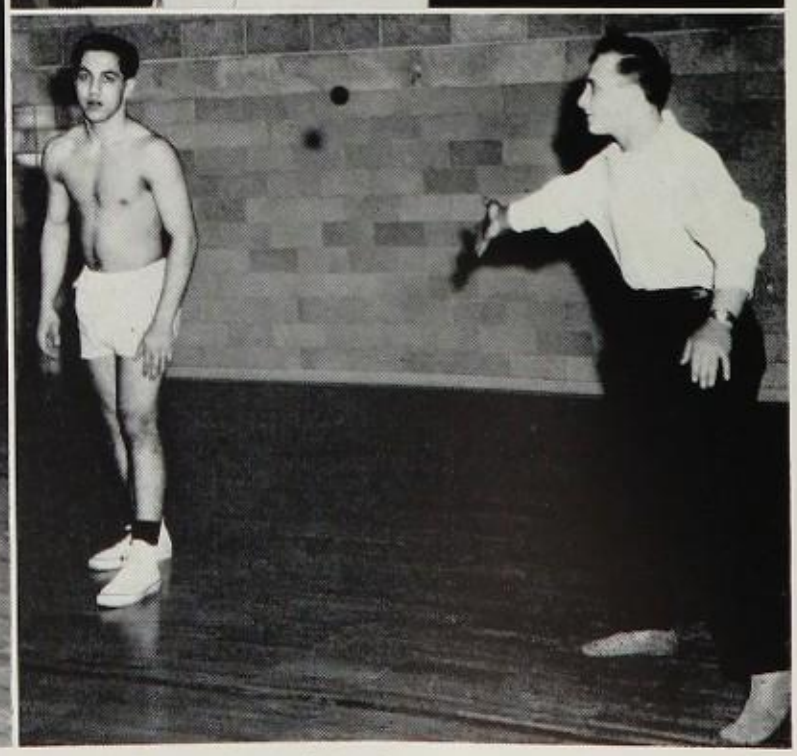
Competition Prevails At Intramural Matches

All boys at Harding have a chance to play competitive sports in the intramurals program. Singles and doubles tournaments are held in riflery, handball, ping pong, wrestling, and shuffleboard. Homeroom groups can enter teams in basketball, volleyball, or a strenuous tug-of-war. Such intramural contests allow boys who are not on a varsity team to play against each other.



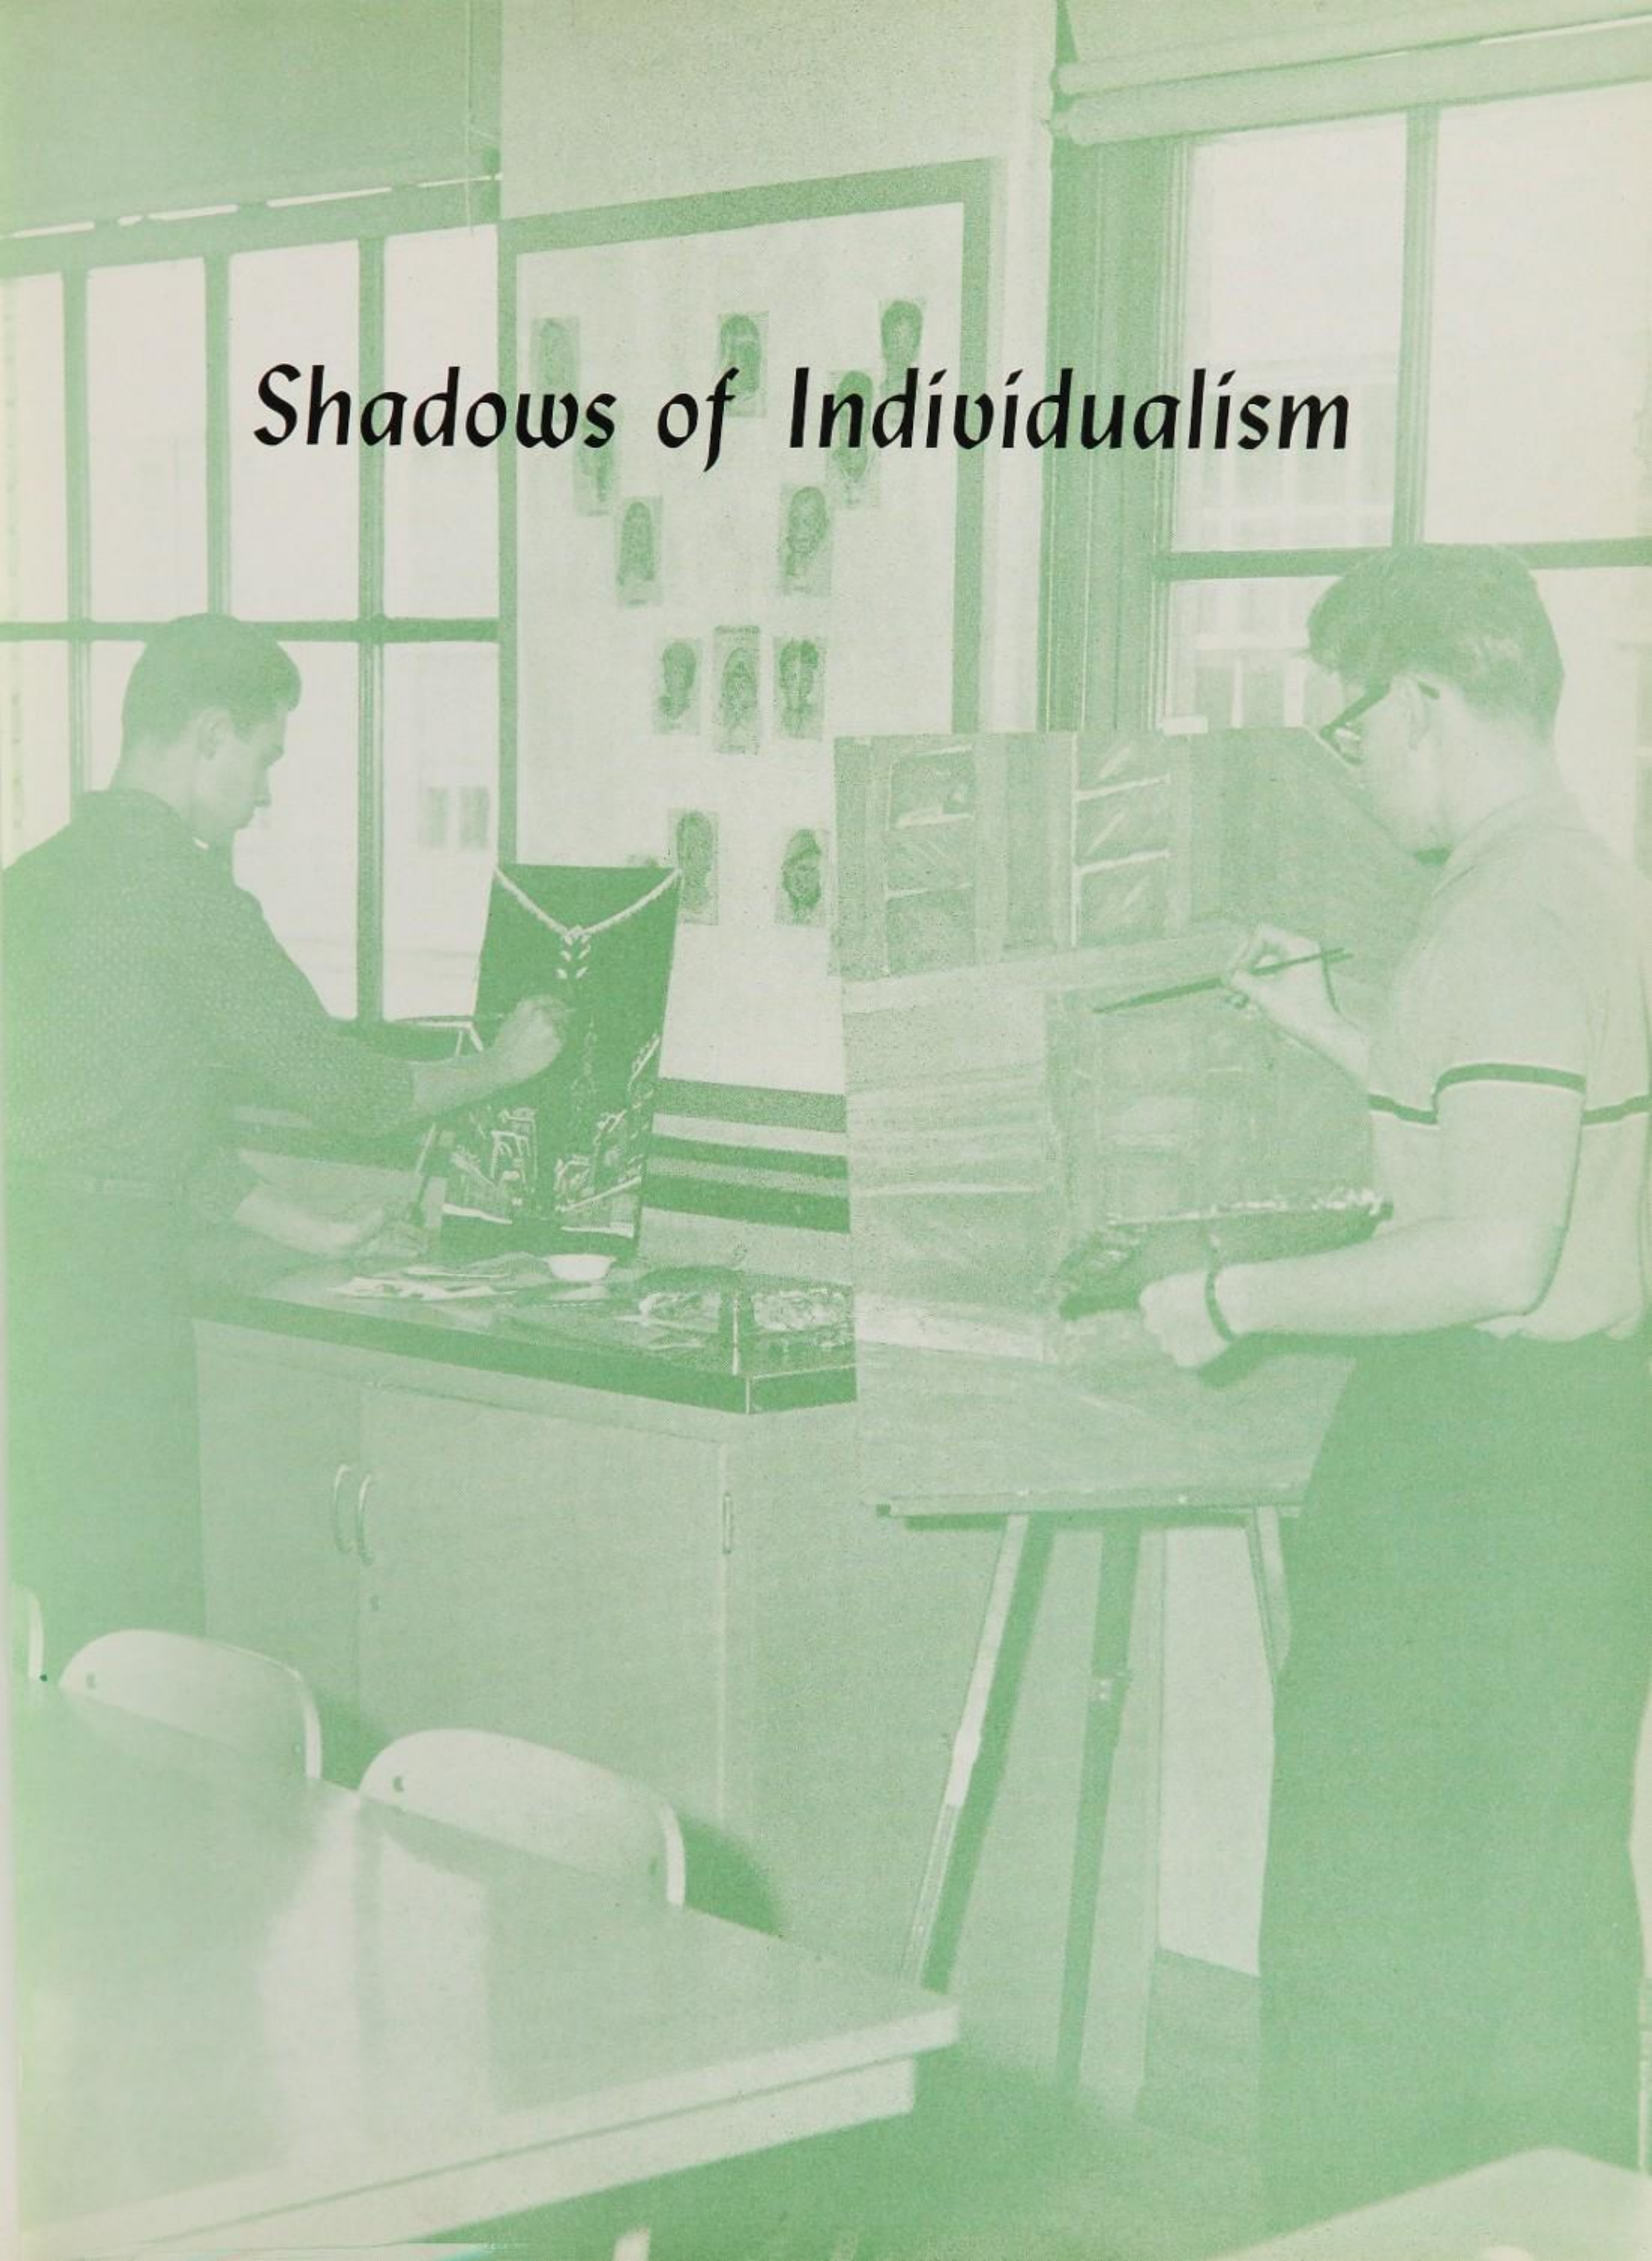




Homeroom champions in basketball (lower) are: R. Vaughn, W. Carnahan, R. Treese, C. Spier, D. Ulery. While J. Mazalic shoots, (above) his form is studied by other winning riflemen: C. Mann, T. Marco, L. Metcalf, K. Moore.

A. Fleck and J. Fenstermaker claim honors in ping pong doubles (above). Singles champ is J. Collins. G. Patulea and A. Hrabowy (lower) prove too much for other handball contestants.

Shadows of Individualism



Sophs Are Starting Down Strange Paths

To help the incoming class get acquainted, Student Council sponsored the annual sophomore party the first weekend after school started. Before the class could function as a whole, though, it was necessary to elect officers. Three boys and a girl were chosen: James Oliver, president; William Hayes, vice-president; Patricia Spano, secretary and George Machaskee, treasurer. In the spring volunteers participated in a money-making project by soliciting advertisements for next fall's football programs.

Assembling after their election are G. Machaskee, J. Oliver, W. Hayes, P. Spano.

In the first free school clinic, students stand in line to give the nurse, Mrs. Greene, their cards for immunizations shots

Compulsory Immunization Poses a Problem

When the state legislature passed the law that all students must be immunized against polio, lockjaw, whooping cough, smallpox, and diphtheria, hundreds of Harding students found themselves unguarded against these diseases. Some chose to receive innoculations from their family doctors, while others took advantage of the clinic arranged at the schools. A well-organized plan was set up for the fast dispensing of these free shots. It became a common occurence to hear these words over the public address system, "The following students will report to the activity room for their polio shots. . ."

"Now this won't hurt much." Nevertheless, J. Thompson isn't so sure as he prepares for a shot by nurse Mrs. Keefner.

Re-elected Junior Officers Lead a Busy Class

Ever-changing patterns mark the junior year, the major objective of which seems to be the making of enough money to see the class through its senior activities. Showing their confidence in the officers who served them last year, the juniors re-elected everyone: Michael Maggiano, president; Tim Carpenter, vice president; Margie Brekoski, secretary; Carol Engle, treasurer. The annual Junior Mix proved to be one of the high points of the year's social calendar. The unique theme of "Plymouth Rock" was carried throughout the dance. In the spring of the year the Spring Festival is sponsored by the junior class. Assistance is also given in the ushering at baccalaureate, commencement, and serving at the senior farewell luncheon.

A Ring Holds Magic

Juniors eagerly look forward to the coming of the ring salesman, who takes orders several times during the year. Before placing an order each person must make several decisions. Shall it be a ring with a black onyx or a white gold field? Shall it be the small, medium, or large setting? Each bears the school emblem and also the year of graduation. When the order is finally placed, it seems ages before the salesman returns to deliver that long-to-be-cherished symbol of high school life.

"We must know the exact size," salesman B. Blake tells C. Jenkins as he measures her finger for that important school ring.

"Here's your football program," says M. Fisher to L. Metcalf as he hands her twenty-five cents.

Any junior can participate in the competition to be named high salesman in the selling of football programs. From approximately fifty active members, Nancy Walter won the coveted honor and, as a reward, was able to attend the football banquet as a free guest. Due to her efforts and those of other salesman, the class treasury was substantially increased, thus making certain that next year traditional senior activities can be planned.

In Memoriam

As our twelve years of education draw to a close and commencement nears, we remember incidents which happened during our school career. One of the saddest events concerned Wilda Gohdes, who would have been a member of the 1960 graduating class. A popular girl and well-liked by those who knew her, she was taken from us by death in her junior year at Harding, but will forever remain in the hearts and memories of her classmates.

For the past three years sponsors have worked diligently to help the class. First, they spent many hours planning future events and organizing the group. Then, working with the officers and committees, each sponsor assumed certain individual responsibilities. Now their duties are approaching an end, and they can look back upon a service much appreciated by every senior.

Coming from a meeting are Mrs. Metzler, Mrs. Wiseman, Mr. Thompson, Mrs. Hill, Mr. Haynes, Mr. Maurice and Mr. Marowitz.

"The Curious Savage" Delights Audience

The hilarious, agonizing search for a fortune in bonds made the senior class play an exciting one. The cast of "The Curious Savage" had many nights of fun at rehearsals getting themselves into character to play the staff and guests of the Cloisters, as well as the Savage family. A variety of character personalities added spice to the suspense-filled action which delighted and entertained the audience. Helping a great deal to make the play a success were committees of seniors who worked on costumes, scenery, and tickets.

Upset over the missing Savage bonds, Lily Belle loudly voices her opinion at "The Cloisters."

Mrs. Paddy fondles the important teddy bear as Mrs. Savage discusses her past with other "guests."

The entire cast takes a bow at curtain call: T. Hart, J. Finn, L. Wagy, J. Sicuro, G. Brown, P. Johnson, S. Binikos, J. Raffield, J. Heller, J. England, G. Richetto.

Diligent Work Is Rewarded by Top Honors

"Journey into Expectations" is the theme of the commencement program to be presented by the thirteen honor students. Each one will tell of the challenges which the graduates face in the sixties. These seniors are the top two per cent of the graduating class of over six hundred. Maintaining this high average during four years of high school has called for constant study.

When the time comes for the measuring of caps and gowns, seniors get the feeling that their high school days are ending. As the procession line forms for baccalaureate, the boys wear blue gowns while the girls are robed in white. After commencement, seniors enjoy keeping the tassels from their hats as memories of this momentous occasion.

As samples are received by the committee, L. Neff models a cap and gown for style while Mrs. Hill carefully checks the quality of the materials.

Mike,

I've known you for a long time. I must admit I couldn't stand you at first, but after I got to know you better I liked you better. I can still remember the first time I saw you. In Mr Mac Elravy's room.

Remember!

Also do you remember (how could you forget) going steady with Dolores. you know what I even tried to get her to break up with you because I disapproved of you.

But in 10th grade I new you better and new what you were like. We always remember the fun we have had and the dumb arguments we, rather I, had with you. You've taught me many lessons mostly the hard way. I hope next year we can be friends without any troubles like we had this year. I assure you I've learned a lot. May the best of everything be yours.

Always
Jackie

Mike,
A really wonderful boy who's known for helping people out with their love-lorn problems.
Best of luck in all you do.
Mary Margaret
